A Drive in L. A. People and Things. 2 Watermelons, 25 Cents. Will Rogers' Ranch.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.

AFTER A SOUL has spent a thousand years in Paradise it probably forgets to wonder, and no longer mentions the marvels of the place, pavements of gold, walls of jasper, that strange beasts talk, or the red, black, white and gray horsemen.

So here in California, after one hundred visits, you take for granted that which amazed you and exhausted your adjective supply, on the first few trips.

THE FLOWERS, sunshine, sky, the beauty of the ocean and the mountains are not to be described. You must see them.

A drive through this city, out to Hollywood, off to the right among the hills of Beverly, and on down to the ocean over those hills through one of the fine roads built along the canyon walls is, or ought to be, a part of every American's education. You cannot possibly imagine what this country is.

THERE IS PROGRESS, then a check, then further progress. But ALWAYS progress. There will be ten million people in Los Angeles and the little group of suburbs around it before existing lives shall end.

There will be fortunes made here, far beyond the dreams of avarice, which is saying a good deal in America.

Come and see, remembering that in California the summer season is the best season.

HERE, INDIVIDUALS and things, not dull news, interest you.

Los Angeles does everything in a determined, solemn and "big" way always. A famous picture opening here is as serious a matter as the enthronement of an emperor in old Byzantium.

The other night Los Angeles gave a great opening FOR A BILL BOARD, a new kind on Wilshire boulevard near Western avenue. There was music amplified and heard for miles. There were lights that made you blink, and thousands of automobiles blocking the roads. Two beautiful young Hollywood ladies in Spanish costume turned the pages of the bill board which was arranged to open like a book.

AS INTERESTING as the bill board were watermelons displayed this morning on the road that leads to Carl Laemmle's office in Universal City.

Those watermelons were really as big around as old fashioned beer kegs, and you could buy two for twenty-five cents. In New York a truck wouldn't haul two for twenty-five cents.

Carl Laemmle has made many great pictures and says pictures made now are better than ever. His health is restored after a severe illness and he is fortunate in having a son, Carl Laemmle, Jr., to carry the load.

CARL LAEMMLE'S career interests young gentlemen who would like to succeed but would like to do it easily.

Working intensely for eleven years in a store in Wisconsin, he managed to save three thousand three hundred dollars, exactly three hundred dollars a year. He invested that sum in moving pictures, and has since made one million dollars in a year and more.

But, young gentlemen, please observe that if he had not SAVED three hundred dollars a year for eleven years, he would never have made a million dollars in one year, would never have been in moving pictures.

NEXT STOP after Universal City is the Will Rogers ranch, rolling up and down over mountains that overlook the Pacific. You meet Rogers leaving the Olympic exhibition of highly trained horses and overhear a sample of his real Oklahoma English as he addresses another cowboy:

"Oh, boy, them's horses."

You might say 'it in more stilted fashion but it would sound less convincing.

Will Rogers has turned his ranch, stables, exercising grounds and polo field over to the United States Army horses, disposing of his own half hundred horses elsewhere. Just outside his door an expert is "barbecuing" beef and mutton, cutting steaks, shaped much like a small flat dress suit case. Many children are disposing of the barbecue, assisted by Army officers. Some, well known are there, Miss Billie Burke (Mrs. Ziegfeld), and her daughter; Mrs. Ned McLean, of the Washington Post, Mrs. Harriet Blaine Beale, daughter of James G. Blaine, and some others. Mrs. McLean bets $100 to $50, and a dinner party, that President Hoover will be re-elected.

WILL ROGERS' career reminds you that we waste sympathy on the poor red man, supposed to have been deprived of his lands, his horses and his position in America. Two Americans, well known, are descended from "Poor Lo." One, Mr. Curtis, is Vice President of the United States. The other, Will Rogers, has avenged his Indian ancestors by getting together fifty of the finest horses, hunters and polo ponies in this country, also untold areas of the most valuable real estate in America. He would not care to have you say how many millions that real estate is worth.

MR. ROGERS always has some one thing that interests him violently. Just now it is the fact that two Irishmen in the Olympics, Dr. Pat O'Callaghan and Robert Tisdale have, by their prowess, won more honor and glory in the games than all

LANDIS HERE PROBES CUB GAMBLING

Slump of Team Under Hornsby Laid to Race Betting

Did heavy gambling on the horse races ruin the morale of the Chicago Cubs and bring about the dismissal of Manager Rogers Hornsby last week?

K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, was in Pittsburgh today investigating reports circulated in Chicago to this effect.

He arrived here this morning and said his visit was merely to see the Pirates and Cubs engage in their crucial battle for first place at Forbes FiField this afternoon. He refused to make a statement on the gambling story, but announced he might have something to say later in the day. He said:

"I always am investigating something."

Pitcher Guy Bush, of the Cubs, was specifically mentioned as involved in the betting charges. Both Manager Grimm, of the Cubs, and Bush, said they talked with Landis and he had not discussed the betting matter with them.

Grimm said Bush would leave with the club tonight to pitch in the series opening in St. Louis tomorrow.

KLINE TO SHARE NEW PAY CUT

Every city employe from the Mayor down, beginning September 1, will take another month's furlough without pay as part of an economy program to save the city $1,469,000 instead of $1,200,000, Mayor Charles H. Kline said today.

The Mayor, who said he would take a furlough "with pleasure," declared that under the program $750,000 will be saved in salaries, $150,000 in wages, $30,000 in traffic planning, $100,000 by postponement of the Chartiers avenue improvement and $125,000 to be saved on equipment and repairs.

Aside from those economies to avoid a huge deficit, the Mayor pointed out there is $264,000 in the councilmanic savings fund which will not be used because of the "frugality of Council."

Kline notified department heads of the furlough in a letter in which he directed that during September, October, November and December each employe be given a week off each month without pay. Another meeting of the cabinet to discuss further economies will be held Tuesday.

In his letter the Mayor said:

"Both the cash shortage carried over from last year and the

'The Angelus' Slashed by Vandal

PARIS, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Millet's priceless painting "The Angelus," reproductions of which are to be found in schools, art museums and textbooks throughout the civilized world, was severely damaged by an apparently demented engineer in the Louvre this afternoon.

The vandal, who gave his name as Guillard, entered the building armed with a knife. Going directly to the painting, he scratched and slashed the surface before a guard was able to subdue him and turn him over to the police.

PROFIT-TAKING HALTS RALLY

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Setting the most terrific pace yet seen in the present recovery, the stock market swept into new high ground in the early dealings today and then ran into huge profit-taking. The ensuing reaction wiped out the early gains and carried the list under last night's final prices.

Bullish enthusiasm at the start was accelerated by reports of steps pointing toward eventual recognition of Russia.

Blocks of stock running to 5,000 shares succeeding each other on the tape. The early trading was at a rate of 9,000,000 shares for a full session, but slowed up after the profit taking was well under way. Sales up to 1:30 o'clock were 3,200,000.

The farm implement group was the pacemaker.

Some of the commodities after a bullish start also ran into profit taking, notably wheat and rubber. Silver, however, was buoyant, with bar silver quoted 1¾ cents higher at 30 cents an ounce. Cotton also was higher.

Mrs. Roosevelt Flies To Hoover Ceremony

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Mrs. Theadore Roosevelt, widow of President Roosevelt, came to Washington by air today to attend the ceremonies incident to President Hoover's acceptance of renomination tonight.

Hoover Plans Surprise On Dry Issue

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—In the elaborate settings of a White House garden party, President Hoover this afternoon will formally open his campaign for re-election.

Tonight, at Constitution Hall, the Executive receives official notification of the fact he was renominated last June in Chicago.

Republican leaders who have seen Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech assert he will give the country "an agreeable surprise" on prohibition tonight.

Hoover will admit for the first time, there should be a change, it was said.

Contending the speakeasy should be condemned as much as the saloon, the Hoover proposal, it was forecast, would give every state the right to decide the liquor question for itself.

WALKER'S HEARING OPENS

N. Y. Mayor Faces 'Showdown' on Seabury Charges

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 11.—In an ornate, luxuriously appointed room in the Capitol Building, only a few feet from the legislative hall where he launched his political career 22 years ago as a young assemblyman, James J. Walker, colorful Mayor of America's largest city, this afternoon faced the crisis of his long and picturesque tenure as a public official.

With Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the candidate for the presidency of the United States, sitting in judgment as the final arbiter, Mayor Walker faced his accuser, Samuel Seabury, the noted civic crusader, at a public hearing which will determine whether or not the Governor will remove the Mayor from office.

NATION-WIDE INTEREST

Public interest, nation-wide in scope, was whipped up to a high point as the principals arrived on the scene. A final, last-minute legal effort to block the hearing failed when Supreme Court Justice F. Walter Bliss, of Schoharie, N. Y., denied an application filed by Attorney Sidney Levine, acting for home rule enthusiasts, to restrain the Governor from proceeding with the hearing.

Seabury was the first to arrive at the executive chamber. Accompanied by several assistants, he pushed his way through the throng that congregated outside the building and in the corridors. He quietly took his place at counsel table and began examining bulky legal documents.

A cordon of state police encircled the building and patrolled the corridors.

Mayor Walker, immaculately attired in a light blue suit, entered the hearing room 10 minutes before it got under way. He was accompanied by a group of personal friends and legal advisers.

Mrs. Walker, who came to Albany with her husband, took a seat among the spectators. She happened to be sitting near the Seabury section, where seven of the latter's assistants were grouped around a large table. There were about 75 spectators in

Women Held For Poison Inquiry

Three women were taken to county detective headquarters today in the alleged Munhall poison plot, on order of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, to be held pending final report this afternoon of County Chemist F. C. Buckmaster on examination of two exhumed bodies.

Those held are Mrs. Anna Allas and Mrs. Mary Chalfa, of Munhall, and Mrs. Gizella Young, Homeville.

Poisons were found in two bodies, those of Joseph Mantyo, first husband of Mrs. Allas, and Richard Duyva, aged 1 year.

Whether the drug was administered with homicidal intent or otherwise is to be determined.

King George's Son Robbed of Jewelry

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Jewelry and personal belongings of the Duke of Gloucester, youngest son of King George, were stolen in a suitcase in Bond street, according to the Daily Mail today.

The valuables, stolen from the Duke's automobile, were valued by the mail at 200 pounds (about $700).

Enemies of Democracy Seek Walker's Removal

THE REPUBLICAN press of New York seems to be intensely anxious to have a Democratic Governor of New York State remove a Democratic Mayor of New York City.

There are also some powerful financial interests, which habitually support Republican candidates, who are also anxious to see Mayor Walker removed by Governor Roosevelt.

The attitude of the Republican press is mainly partisan. It is probably good politics to sow dissension in the ranks of the Democracy, especially at a time when the Democrats have, if united, an excellent chance of carrying the country.

The attitude of the great Wall Street financial houses, however, is only partly partisan.

They are, to be sure, not supporters of Governor Roosevelt's Presidential candidacy, and they realize perfectly that they have most to gain from a Republican national administration.

BUT these great financial houses also are very antagonistic to Mayor Walker on account of his determined support of the five-cent fare on the New York traction lines.

These Wall Street financiers have endeavored persistently to impose a seven-cent or a ten-cent fare upon the people of New York who travel on the traction lines.

But Mayor Walker has very effectively resisted this effort.

Therefore, if these powerful bankers and holders of New York traction securities can secure the removal of Mayor Walker, and at the same time divide the Democratic party in New York into hostile camps, they will have accomplished a double, and to them highly desirable, purpose.

Governor Roosevelt should remember that these great Wall Street bankers are also the dominant figures in the Power Trust, a despotic and discreditable combination which Governor Roosevelt has very valiantly fought, and which has very viciously fought Governor Roosevelt.

In fact, the most active influence at Chicago in opposition to the nomination of Governor Roosevelt or any Progressive Democrat came from this Power Trust and these Wall Street bankers and their banking connections all over the country, who flooded the convention with telegrams urging delegates who were committed to Governor Roosevelt to desert him and support Mr. Baker, the Power Trust nominee.

THE Hearst papers do not think that Governor Roosevelt should be or could be influenced in his attitude on the case of Mayor Walker by any personal considerations.

The Hearst papers would not admire him and support him as ardently as they do if he were a man who allowed personal considerations to influence his public attitude.

Still there is no reason why Governor Roosevelt should allow himself to be stampeded into an unjust act by the enemies of his party and his policies.

And the Hearst papers earnestly believe that it is only plain justice to the people of New York City and New York State for Governor Roosevelt and the people of the nation to realize that the opposition to Mayor Walker is not wholly high-minded and unprejudiced.

It is based to a very considerable degree on the desire of powerful financial interests in New York to get rid of a Mayor who is opposed to their plans, and if possible to secure in his place a Mayor who will be more submissive to their dictation.

It is also based on a very natural, but not unselfish desire to see division in the Democratic party, and to see Mr. Roosevelt himself invite complications which might jeopardize the success of the Democratic party nationally as well as locally.

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT is the hope of the Democrats of the country, and not only of the Democrats but of the millions of Republicans who are patriots first and partisans afterwards, and who desire to see elected, for purely patriotic reasons, an administration which will be more thoroughly American and more concerned for the welfare of

BODY OF YEAST KING STABBED 22 TIMES, FOUND IN SACK

John Bazzano, associate of the three slain Volpe brothers, has been murdered. He was stabbed 22 times with an ice pick and his tongue cut out in New York, detectives learned here today.

The blood and thunder that brought a spectacular finish to the Volpes—bosses or aides, whichever they were—was denied to wealthy Bazzano, yeast merchant, who went to his death Monday with little noise in the squalid Red Hook vice section of Brooklyn.

It was in Bazzano's Rome Coffee Shop at 704 Wylie avenue that the three Volpes were slain.

Hands bound under knees, head lashed to the knees, feet securely tied together, Bazzano's body was found in a gunny sack in a back street of Brooklyn.

The sack was rough lodging for Bazzano, used to the palatial comfort of his 15-room brownstone English type home at 1287 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon. He was identified today from pictures brought here by New York detectives.

IDENTITY OF MURDER GO-BETWEEN KNOWN

Meanwhile, Inspector Frank Boyd and Lieut. Frank R. Ferris, of homicide squad, announced that they know the go-between who arranged the deaths of Johnny, Jim and Arthur Volpe two weeks ago Friday. All city detectives were busy today combing the haunts of the fugitives whose arrest was expected today.

Homicide detectives were quick to point to Bazzano as the "man behind the throne" in the Volpe mob. They identified John and his brother, Santo, with the yeast racket in the county. Wide publicity, they said, and underworld homage to the trio led him, jealous, to seek their deaths.

Thus was Bazzano honored, after death, with the title "King of the Underworld," but it was only a theory.

On identifying the victim of the Brooklyn knives, detectives rushed to the Bazzano home to seek some clue that might solve the deaths.

The home, detectives said, had been under observation for more than a week, while sleuths sought Joe Spinelei, of 134 Middle street, Wilmerding, in connection with the murder. Spinelei's car had been foun din the district and detectives hoped to find him hiding in the Bazzano home.

WIDOW COLLAPSES

Spinelei was not to be found. Capt. John Swager, of Mt. Lebanon police, said he had learned from Bazzano neighbors that Spinelei had been in the vicinity for several days.

Weeping and screaming, Mrs. Bazzano and her five children received news of the husband and father's death. Collapse followed

HARRIS SEEKING UTILITY INQUIRY

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—A resolution for an investigation of alleged improper relationhips between public utilities and public service commissioners was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Frank J. Harris, of Allegheny County.

Under Senate rules, the resolution will not come up for consideration until next Monday night.

Harris' resolution is designed to carry out the insistence yesterday by Gov. Pinchot that revelations of gratuities paid to former Chairman W. D. B. Ainey, of the Public Service Commission, furnishes the basis for a thorough inquiry. Ainey resigned rather than face trial by the Senate.

The Harris resolution would provide for investigation by a special committee of seven members, to be named by the president pro tem of the Senate, and having full authority of subpena either for witnesses or documents.

Lindys Expect New Baby Before End of Month

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Aug. 11.—The new Lindbergh baby is expected any time after August 19, it was learned today.

At the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, mother of Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, an intimate friend of the family revealed today:

"It is unlikely the baby will come in less than two weeks' time, but the family is prepared for the event any time after August 19.

"Mrs. Lindbergh is quite well."

Col. Lindbergh and his wife have asked the utmost privacy at the time of the new child's birth. With their first baby gone, victim of a kidnaper and murderer, it is only natural the second birth should be attended with fear.

The Lindberghs are planning to stay at the Morrow home until after the birth of the second baby and then go back to their home in Hopewell, N. J., where the new baby probably will sleep in the same nursery from which the first child was stolen.

BAZZANO, VOLPE AIDE, STABBED TO DEATH IN N. Y.

the news and the widow was ordered under a physician's care.

The large dining room in the home's basement held a table set for 12 persons. Eight were already there—Mrs. Bazzano, the five children, John's brother, Santo, and Frank Zappala, well-known Italian attorney of Pittsburgh.

Santo it was who cowered behind a cigar counter in the Rome Coffee Shop to escape the hail of bullets that brought death to the Volpe brothers. He is free, today, under $1,000 bail as a material witness to the Volpe slayings.

MOVEMENTS TRACED

John Bazzano, it was learned, had checked out of a large New York hotel with two other men shortly before he met his death. He had left Pittsburgh Thursday.

Whether he had talked too much—to lose his tongue—was was not known today. John had disclaimed all knowledge of the Volpe killing, claiming he was in a coffee shop in Midland, Pa., which he owned, on the day of the killing.

At the Wylie avenue shop met numerous councils of the Volpe—or Bazzano—mob, he admitted. But of the killings he proclaimed complete ignorance. Santo was reported as having hid behind the cigar stand, crying:

"I don't want to die, I don't want to die."

Mrs. Bazzano was to be questioned by Boyd and Ferris when she recovered from shock.

SLEUTHS SEIZE AUTO

In the garage of the Bazzano home stood John's big four-door pea-green Lincoln sedan, bearing license plates ZB6, just as Johnny Volpe's custom-built Packard bore license JV8.

The Brooklyn stabbing seemed to verify reports that a long and bloody trail would be carved through the mazes of the underwoorld as a result of the spectacular toppling of the Volpe dynasty. A feud seemed to be in full swing.

Bazzano was well-dressed, his nails flashily manicured.

Twenty-two wounds, any one of which would have caused death, were in the victim's chest. Around his neck was a bloody slip-noose—enough to choke the life from the toughest man. His tongue was missing and his body otherwise mutilated.

BODY FOUND IN STREET

He wore a gray suit, tan shoes and white hose and had been dead about three hours when Joseph Miller, returning to his home at 12 Center street, found the burlap-wrapped bundle in Center street, near Henry street, in the Red Hook section, noted home of Brooklyn vice.

Police expressed the belief that the man had been killed in Manhattan and the body taken to Brooklyn.

Had the killing been done by Brooklyn men familiar with the section, they said, the body undoubtedly would have been thrown into the water.

The Bazzano brothers were comparatively unknown in the Hill district, where the Volpes had been shouldering their way into the booze and numbers rackets for almost a year—ever since the voters in Wilmerding tired of their autocratic rule.

It had been rumored, following the triple murder, that the Bazzano boys were no small fry. Possibility was seen today that the underworld had marked John Bazzano to pay for the Volpe death.

UNDERWORLD ROCKED

Santo Bazzano was arrested shortly after the Volpe deaths and held for questioning. Long grilling by the detectives failed to break his declaration that he knew nothing about the killings.

The killing of the Volpes rocked the underworld of Pittsburgh—the bootleggers and the "numbers" operators who had watched the Wilmerding Italians in their efforts to consolidate Pittsburgh's rackets into a monopoly.

Bullets finding their marks, put an end to the reign of the family which had never bowed to law of society or underworld. Pittsburgh was tense for days following the killings, while detectives apparently met with little success in their efforts to learn the identities of the three men who walked into the Rome Coffee Shop and slew the bootleg barons.

The slayings resulted in the temporary closing of Pittsburgh's already depressed "racket joints," and a number of prominent racketeers whent into hiding.

RUMORS OF REVENGE

Rumors of retaliation—rumors that the Volpes never forget—have been heard among "small fry" and "big fish" since the fatal Friday.

Reverberations from the Bazzano killing were expected to be heard throughout the Pittsburgh district. It probably will be linked with the slaying of the "big shots" and probably will point a finger at the "mob" that ordered that the three Volpes be "put on the spot."

The Volpe gang in Pittsburgh was a consolidation of former independent bootleggers and "numbers" racketeeers who, many of them, came into the ring unwillingly. The slayings were seen today as a declaration of independence by Pittsburgh racketeers who never had submitted to monopolistic policies before.

2,000 BACK AT P.R.R. POSTS

As a result of the co-operative effort of men and management to secure a wider distribution of employment, more than 2,000 furloughed employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad were put back to work during July.

These are distributed over the entire system, more than 700 returning to duty in the Central region, which includes Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cleveland, Erie, Wheeling and Akron.

The plan of distributing the available work on the railroad more broadly, in order to reduce unemployment as much as practicable, has been worked out and made effective in a series of conferences with the various classifications of employes.

Mussolini Presides At Cabinet Meeting

ROME, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Premier Mussolini presided today at the first meeting of his reorganized cabinet in which he holds the posts of foreign minister, minister of the interior and minister of corporations. LANG ORDERS LIGHT SURVEY

A survey of city street lights to determine if any can be eliminated or reduced in wattage has been ordered by Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works.

The city is buying its street lighting now from the Duquesne Light Company under a temporary contract. A five-year contract has been held up pending negotiations.

Conferences on the light rates for homes are being held today by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt with Duquesne Light officials. Waldschmidt has refused to reveal the terms of the new domestic rate offer, the third made recently by the company, until an agreement has been reached. The company's new offer has been reported to be more favorable to the consumer than any thus far received.

DENY U. S. SPIES INCITED RIOTS OF VETERANS

Secret Service, Justice Chiefs Hold Bonus Charge False

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A vigorous denial was on record today from the heads of the Secret Service and Department of Justice bureau of investigation of charges made by Jerry W. Wilford, who led a group of the bonus marchers evicted by troops, that federal men were "planted" among the veterans to "provoke" a riot.

Wilford was reported to have signed an affidavit charging the government inspired the rioting on July 28 in accordance with a prearranged plan. The affidavit was said to be ready for presentation to the grand jury now investigating the riots. W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service, said:

"So far as we are concerned, it is absolutely absurd."

He added that several of his men openly assisted treasury officials seeking to evict the men from federal property and emphasized that no effort was made to conceal their identity.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation, said none of his agents "at any time" was assigned to the bonus marchers' camps here.

WRITERS DENY VISITING REDS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A denial that writers who had been refused permission to talk with President Hoover yesterday went to Communist headquarters afterward was telegraphed to the Associated Press today by Elliott E. Cohen.

Cohen was one of the group that met Theodore Joslin, a secretary to the President. After his return to New York, he said he saw news dispatches quoting police as saying the writers visited Communists.

His telegram, referring to Sherwood Anderson, novelist; James Rorty, poet; Waldo Frank, of New York, and William Jones, Negro editor, said, in part:

"This is pure fabrication typical of red herring stories Washington police have been issuing throughout whole bonus army episode."

Police Score Victory on Pensions

The 16 retired policemen who are fighting Mayor Kline and other city officials to prevent reduction of their pensions won a victory in Common Pleas Court today when Judge Thomas M. Marshall granted them a temporary mandatory injunction which forbids such reductions.

Final hearing will be August 24.

Attorney Ralph H. Smith, counsel for the pensioners, argued that the fund was mismanaged in that salaries of the fund officers had not been reduced.

Restricted by this injunction, besides the Mayor, are Controller J. P. Kerr; Public Safety Director James M. Clark, one of the salaried employes of the fund; Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh.

Councilmen Willing To Return Month's Pay

A poll of members of Council today indicated the willingness of some of them to return a month's salary to the city treasury to halt Pittsburgh's growing deficit.

Council members' replies were:

John S. Herron, president:

"I think that Council will do as last year, return a certain amount to the city treasury. But this year the needs being greater, I feel safe in saying that a month's salary will be returned, to be paid in the manner that best suits the individual members."

P. J. McArdle:

"Of course I will."

M. J. Muldowney:

"I will do the thing I think I should do."

Harry A. Little:

"Will have to take a month the same as anyone else."

William J. Soost:

"I have not given it much thought."

Robert Garland:

I have said all I am going to say on the question."

City Furloughs Save Municipality $171,237

The rank and file of city employes have been taking furloughs. The savings for the first seven months of the year amount to $471,237, only $14,700 behind schedule, according to Budget Controller Robert J. Alderdice.

The furlough set by Council was one month for all employes, to save $833,000.

The Department of Public Works is ahead on its furlough schedule to the extent of $12,000. The Department of Public Safety is $41,500 behind. This will have to be absorbed in the next five months, Alderdice said.

GERMAN CHIEFS SOUND DOOM OF REPUBLIC

Power of Hitlerites Conceded By Officials

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—The death-knell of Germany's social democracy, as founded 13 years ago, was sounded by government speakers today at what was generally regarded as the last celebration of Germany's "Constitution Day."

In the presence of President von Hindenburg and hundreds of other notables assembled in the Reichstag, the doctrines of Adolf Hitler, militant leader of the National Socialists and outstanding candidate for the chancellorship, were laid before the people as the nucleus of a new Germany.

REPUBLIC "SHUNNED"

Not once during the speeches was the word "republic" mentioned. In its stead, the orators referred to the "United German Reich"—the term used by Hitler for years in his demands for extinction of the social democratic republic, which arose from the ashes of the World War.

Chancellor Franz von Papen thundered:

"The nationalistic forces which lay dormant in 1919 under the ruins of terrifying collapse have now been revived."

Strictly speaking, today's ceremonies were not a celebration but a requiem.

It was one of the strangest spectacles to occur in the history of post-war Germany. Government officials, gathered ostensibly to honor the constitution and its founders, declared in simple and unequivocal terms that the constitution was dead.

REVISION ASKED

Baron von Gayl, minister of the interior and one of the most astute political minds in Von Papen's cabinet of Monarchists, was the chief speaker. He said:

"The conditions under which we are forced to live today are striking evidence that the Weimar constitution must be revised, beginning with complete revolution of the election system."

President von Hindenburg, looking remarkably spry despite his 85 years, sat in the presidential box, flanked by Lieut. Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, who was resplendent in full uniform. It was regarded as significant that Von Hindenburg chose Von Schleicher as his box companion, while the remainder of the cabinet sat some distance away.

At the close of the proceedings, the audience joined in singing the battle cry of Kaiserdom, "Deutschland Uber Alles."

SPANISH MOBS LOOT ROYALISTS

MADRID, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Bands of Communists and Syndicalists, seeking vengeance against authors of the short-lived Monarchist revolt against the Spanish republic, ran riot in the streets of Seville today, threatening to engulf the city in a wave of bloodshed and terrorism.

The rioters set fire to buildings, including the jail and the printing shop where Gen. San Jurjo, leader of the one-day rebellion, printed his manifesto urging restoration of the Bourbon dynasty.

A special detachment of troops was rushed to the convent of San Leandro to head off a band of terrorists reported bound for the place with torches.

Gen. San Jurjo, arrested while fleeing to Portugal, will be brought to Madrid to stand trial.

Despite vigorous efforts of civil guards, the campaign of destruction continued throughout the day. The aristocratic Club Nuelva Caerio was destroyed by fire, as well as the home of Ignacio Luga Detena, prominent Monarchist and publisher of the Madrid newspaper A. B. C.

Deny Alfonso Aided Spain's Short Revolt

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—The News-Chronicle today reported a telephone conversation with a spokesman for former King Alfonso of Spain in which it was denied the exiled monarch had a part in yesterday's revolt against the republican government in Madrid.

Rusty Nail Kills Pal, 'Old Gang' Mourns

A boy, who loved life so much he continued to play and laugh for five days after running a rusty nail deep into his foot, is dead today.

Joseph Fox, Jr., 14, succumbed in the Presbyterian Hospital from blood poisoning, caused by the nail. The "old gang" that Joe led in fun, today sits brooding in small groups about his home, 35 Independence street, West End.

Within the house, Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Fox sit with their five remaining children. The mother can say only:

"He had such a ready smile for everybody and loved to live."

The father, who has been out of work for several months, says nothing, but rocks and rocks with a plump baby boy in his arms.

Joseph stepped on the nail a week ago yesterday. He did not complain until last Sunday night when he told his mother:

"I'm tired. My foot hurts."

Wales Writing Book On African Hunts

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—"Sport and Travel in East Africa," by his royal highness, the Prince of Wales.

This book will be offered to the public early in 1933, the publishers announced today, and will be an account of the prince's 1928 and 1930 hunting expeditions to Ethiopia.

The book will be illustrated with photographs taken by the prince.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, arrived here by airplane today from England and stopped for dinner before going on by train to Venice and Corfu where they will inspect the British Mediterranean fleet.

RIN TIN TIN, FAMOUS AND 'RICH' DOG ACTOR, DIES

SON TO ASSUME ROLE OF FILM VETERAN

Movie and Radio Star Succumbs to Ills Of Old Age at 14

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The famous German police dog actor, Rin Tin Tin, credited with saving Warner Brothers from possible bankruptcy before that movie concern gave the world talking pictures, is dead after more than 13 years in the films.

Popular the world over among movie-goers, the clever animal star, which earned a fortune in his career, died Tuesday morning at the home of his owner and trainer, Lee Duncan, in nearby Westwoodan.

Death apparently resulted from the infirmities of age. Rin Tin Tin was 14 years old, aged for a dog.

SON TO TAKE ROLE

Mascot pitcures announced Rin Tin Tin, Jr., will immediately step into his father's role, starting in a few days on a picture which was to have starred the elder dog.

Rin Tin Tin was in several pictures for Warners in the silent film days. His popularity is credited, in large measure, with having bridged Warners over serious financial difficulties which befell them just before they bought Vitaphone and gave the world its first talking pictures.

EARNED FORTUNE

No estimate was available on the life-time earnings of the remarkable dog actor, but the total is believed to have been around $300,000.

He has appeared on the stage, and his bark has been heard in radio programs.

The body was buried privately at the rear of the Duncan home.

A statement from Mascot Pictures said Rin Tin Tin, Jr., trained for a year for picture work, gives promise of equaling, of not excelling, his father as an actor.

HARRIS BLAMES THURSTONS

Harry Harris, discussing the divorce action of his wife, Jane Thurston Harris, daughter of the magician, was reported to have said that interference of her family was the only trouble in their married life.

Harris was reported to have described his wife's action as a complete surprise to him and averred that it was not instigated by her.

Shoots Self on Visit To Mother's Grave

POMEROY, O., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Standing over his mother's grave, James C. Cross, prominent Omaha (Neb.) attorney, shot himself today, according to county authorities.

He was rushed to a hospital at Parkersburg, W. Va., where no hope was held for his recovery.

Weather Conditions.

The low pressure that produced the showery conditions over this section yesterday is now centered over the New England coast and a trough of low pressure extends westward from this center over the Ohio Valley states to another low over the West. Centers in the West are over New Mexico and Colorado, 29.66 inches, and over Southern Alberta, 29.64 inches. The showers yesterday covered most of the Ohio Valley states, the lower portion of the lake region and southward to the Gulf states. In the West the showers were scattered. Cloudy weather covers the most of the Ohio Valley states this morning, but it is not raining anywhere. Temperature changes were towards cooler over this section and northeastward, but the change was slight. Maximum temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred over the Gulf states and northward to about the middle of the country yesterday.

River Conditions.

Generous showers occurred yesterday in some localities in the Pittsburgh River district, causing a few tenths rise in some of the tributaries of the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio rivers, but there will not be sufficient runoff to produce any material rise in the main rivers. Stage at Franklin is 0.1 foot; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 6.3; Pittsburgh, 10.0. Dam No. 4, 9.0; No. 6, 7.3; No. 10, 8.0, and No. 12, 6.6. The dams are up. Some of the heavier showers reported are: Morgantown, 1.11 inches; Beaver Falls, 1.02; Elkins, .90; Johnstown, .70, and Philippi, .62.

LEE DUNCAN AND HIS RIN TIN TIN ENTERTAINING THE YOUNGSTERS IN PITTSBURGH

Mr. Duncan, his owner, and famed Rin Tin Tin, dog hero of the films, pictured in April, 1931, on a visit to Pittsburgh. Rin died in Hollywood last night at the age of 14 years, of which he had spent 13 in rising to wealth, stardom in the movies. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

AMY MAY MAKE N. Y. FLIGHT

DUBLIN, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Capt. James A. Mollison, who will start as soon as possible on a round trip trans-Atlantic flight, planned to go to Clifden, in County Galway, today, to look for a suitable stretch from which to take off. Mollison said he hoped to be able to hop off by August 17, in explaining he was awaiting only favorable weather.

Mollison and his bride, Amy Johnson, also a noted flier, neither would confirm nor deny a rumor circulated at Baldonnel Airport today to the effect that Amy, and not Mollison, would make the flight.

Pope Expresses Interest in Negro

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Pope Pius expressed his interest in the religious welfare of the American Indian and the American Negro by sending a letter today to American bishops recommending that they protect and develop the Order of the Sisters of the Most Holy Sacrament, which works among those races.

When the Pope received Cardinal Daugherty, of Philadelphia, last month he said the spiritual needs of the American Negro were close to his heart.

Subway Crowds See Man Shoot Wife

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Ray Stone, 42, shot and critically wounded his estranged wife, Mrs. Rowena Stone, 32, last night in a crowded subway terminal where she was employed as a cashier, and then ended his own life.

'$1 Drunk' Town Protested by Pastors

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—The Ministerial Association and the W. C. T. U. rose up today against permitting East Liverpool to become a "one dollar drunk town."

Now that City Council has ordered the fine for intoxication cut from $10 to $1, the Rev. B. H. Shadduck, other pastors and temperance workers announced they will demand a referendum to restore the $10 fine.

Councilman George A. Hughes said that a $10 fine does "not penalize the offender, but takes bread and butter from his wife and children."

MAN AND GIRL DARE CHANNEL

DOVER, England, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Shortly after E. H. Temme, a London insurance clerk, set out to swim the English Channel for the second time, Miss Sunny Lowery, 21-year-old Manchester girl, returned here today after having come within four miles of her goal.

Temme, who conquered the channel in a swim from France to Dover in 1927, set out from Shakespeare Cliff, near here, at 8:35 a. m. (3:35 a. m. Pittsburgh time) for Cape Grisnez, France, endeavoring to become the first person to swim the channel twice.

Miss Lowery gave up her attempt at 6:55 a. m. just four miles short of Cape Grisnez, beaten by the intense cold of the water, the temperature of which had dropped greatly during the night. She had set out at 4:58 p. m. yesterday.

FIREMEN HOLD BIG PARADE

By DAVID ROSENTHAL
Staff Correspondent.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 11.—With yesterday's election of officers a closed chapter in their book of events, members of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association today turned their attention to the monster parade scheduled to be one of the outstanding events in their thirty-ninth annual convention in session here. Apparatus and uniforms said to be valued at $1,000,000 was expected to be in the line of march.

Ferdinand C. Erk, of Vandergrift, was elected president of the association. He defeated William D. Lewis, of Masontown, by a vote of 810 to 393, in one of the closest campaigns in the history of the organization. Vice presidents elected were Charles Stack, East Pittsburgh, 1,085; Jesse L. Humes, Tarentum, 897, and Walter J. Fennell, Verona, 465. The fourth candidate, Elmer H. Schmidt, Mt. Oliver, receiving only 219 votes, was defeated.

The selection for next year's convention town was not agreed upon. The control board, consisting of the president, vice presidents, secretary and treasurer, will decide at their January's meeting.

Cunningham Wealth Shrinks to $330,533

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—The estate of Thomas W. Cunningham, former Sheriff, who died last August 31 in the Atlantic City Hospital after being stricken in his summer home at Ventnor, N. J., has shrunk from "$1,000,000 or more" to $330,533, an inventory filed today indicated. The shrinkage was said to be due largely to a decline in the value of securities during the present year.

CHICAGO GANGS DEFIED BY MAN, 83, IN 'FORT'

Union Official Ready To 'Shoot It Out' With Capone Pals

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Seated at his desk inside a brownstone mansion, which within six weeks has become a bullet-proof fortress, a rolypoly little man of 83 years today shouted defiance to gangsters and racketeers.

"Uncle Steve" Sumner, who for 30 years has been secretary, treasurer and business agent of Chicago's milk wagon drivers' union, said:

"Let 'em try to muscle in on us—just let 'em try."

He pointed to walls paneled with armor plate, to windows covered with heavy steel mesh screens, to peepholes where gun muzzles fit.

This newly equipped arsenal is the union's answer to gangsters' proposals to "take over" the organization, with its rich treasury and 7,200 members—"or else—"

"Uncle Steve" declared:

"They offered us $100,000 to get out so they could levy tribute from our members, but we told them they had come to the wrong place."

That threat, he said, came from Murray Humphries, Frank Diamond, George (Red) Barker and "Three-Fingered Jack" White—all former henchmen of Al Capone. Barker since has been slain.

Gang Slays Competitor Of Capone Beer Ring

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Joe (Big Rabbits) Connell today joined the numberless ranks of underworld rebels for whom death was the price of independence.

Owner of a brewery whose product competed with that of the Al Capone syndicate beer factories, Connell was slain last night as he stood in front of one of his saloons.

A big black limousine drew up at the curb. A voice shouted: "Rabbits." Connells started toward the car. There was a blast from a shotgun. Connell fell dead.

Union Agent Slain In Labor Warfare

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Alden Moore, business agent for the Boiler Makers' Union of East St. Louis, was slain by machine gun fire and two other members of the union were wounded last night in front of the Central Trades Union Building here.

Police said the shooting was an outgrowth of a labor feud which has been waged the past few weeks because of the employment of nonunion workers by the Phillips Petroleum Company.

Racketeers Close Garment Factory

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—New York racketeers were charged with responsibility today for the temporary shutdown of a clothing factory here employing about 200 persons as the result of alleged terrorism to prevent the shipment of cut cloth into New York.

Daughter of Baron Studying Cooking

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Miss Blanche Koranyi, daughter of Baron Koranyi, the Finance Minister, completed her apprenticeship and passed an examination yesterday to qualify as an assistant pastry cook.

It is an old Hungarian custom that the children of aristocrats must be skilled at some occupation.

Virginia Bruce Quits Set to Wed Gilbert

MRS. JOHN GILBERT . . . SHE'S THE GREAT LOVER'S FOURTH!

AIMEE HUTTON ON VACATION

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Mrs. Aimee Semple-McPherson-Hutton has recovered sufficiently from a nervous breakdown and a fracture of the skull to leave her Lake Elsinore home with a nurse and her husband, David L. Hutton, for a three-week trip.

Dr. Edward Huntington Williams said the evangelist's nervous condition had improved.

Mrs. Hutton described the trip as a "journey to nowhere." She swooned and fractured her skull at her Lakeside home several weeks ago upon being informed a jury had returned a $5,000 verdict against Hutton in a breach of promise suit.

Archbishop Freed In Obregon Death

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Archbishop Leopoldo Manuel Ruiz y Flores, papal delegate to Mexico, will not be prosecuted for aiding Manuel Trejo Morales escape from Mexico after the assassination of President Alvaro Obregon, the Fifth District Court ruled today. Thejo Morales, a suspected accomplice of Obregon's assassin, Jose Leon Toral, was given $200 by the archbishop for an airplane flight from the country, the latter confessed to the court.

Film Idol Gives Bride But 15 Minutes to Don Trousseau

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The film cameras were still grinding on the studio lot at 5:45 p. m. yesterday. Before one of them stood Virginia Bruce, an actress, portraying the part of a crippled trader's daughter in a picture of African life. She was in rags and her face was stained.

John Gilbert walked onto the set and interrupted the scene. He calmly announced:

"We're going to be married at 6 o'clock."

Miss Bruce began:

"Oh, John—"

"Six o'clock."

"But there's so much to be done—e—"

"Six o'clock. My bungalow. Be there."

In this manner did Gilbert, the screen's "great lover," set the stage for his wedding last night to Miss Bruce. And Miss Bruce was there in 15 minutes, all washed and dressed in bridal apparel, establishing some sort of a record for speed, if what the press agents said was true.

The wedding ceremony was performed shortly after 6 o'clock. The bride was given away by her father, Earl Frederick Briggs. Irving Thalberg, producer, was best man. Mrs. Donald Ogden Stewart, wife of the writer, was matron of honor.

The marriage was Gilbert's fourth, his divorce from his third wife, Ina Claire, actress, having become final last Saturday.

CLARKE ADDICT OF DRUG, PAL TELLS JURY

Counsel for Lancaster Holds Dope Induces Suicide Tendency

By LARRY SMITS
International News Service.

COURTHOUSE, Miami, Fla., Aug. 11.—Haden Clarke, young writer, for whose murder Capt. William N. Lancaster, British flier and war hero, is on trial, was addicted to marijuana, the Mexican form of the insidious Oriental drug, hasheesh.

This was brought out today by Defense Counsel James M. Carson in the testimony of Dick Lavender, of New Orleans, an admitted drinking companion of Clarke.

WITNESS ACCUSED

Clarke smoked marijuana in the form of cigarets, Lavender testified.

The defense contends that the use of marjuana induces a tendency to suicide in a neurotic user.

Lavender's testimony followed a revelation by United States Marshal J. P. Moe that Mark G. Tancrel, an official of Latin-American Airways, who, according to the trial testimony, was rebuffed when he sought to persuade Lancaster to join in smuggling operations, harbored a strong malice against the British flier. According to Mee, Tancrel said:

"My God, don't put me in the same cell with Lancaster; I'll have to kill him. I'm going to do everything I can to see that Lancaster burns."

DISCUSSED SUICIDE

Tancrel, who is in jail awaiting trial on a charge of impersonating a United States naval officer, testified for the state that Lancaster threatened to kill Clarke.

Lavender testified Clarke frequently discussed suicide and said the best way to do it was by a shot through the head.

MRS. CARROLL DEAD HERE

Mrs. Elizabeth Baggaley Carroll, wife of A. Rook Carroll, died today at her home, 521 South Lang avenue. She was a daughter of the late Ralph Baggaley, capitalist and inventor, and through her grandmother, Mrs. Harriett Alden Arthurs, was descended from John and Pricilla Alden, of the Mayflower.

Mrs. Carroll, born in Pittsburgh, attended the Misses Ely School in New York and Bryn Mawr College. She was a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church. In recent years she spent some time in North East, Pa., where she was active in civic work.

She leaves her husband; two children, Miss Harriett E. and Robert Howard; three sisters, Mrs. D. King Irwin and Mrs. Walter R. Hines, of Short Hills, N. J., and Mrs. J. L. McK. Yardley, of Pittsburgh, and two brothers, W. Blair Baggaley, of Chicago, and Ralph Baggaley, Jr., of Harrisburg. Mrs. Ralph Baggaley, her step-mother, is a resident of Pittsburgh.

Blonde Slays Man Partner in Roadhouse

the rest of the British Empire put together.

JOE BANNON, of New York, is here. You may not know him, but every newsdealer knows him and so does everybody that ever saw a first-class prize fight.

To hear Bannon describe how Dr. O'Callaghan threw the hammer is like reading the history of Beowulf.

"O'Callaghan throws the hammer, and then some Finn or something throws his hammer a couple of inches farther.

"O'Callaghan picks up his hammer again, slaps his chest, spits on his hands, and throws the hammer eighteen feet farther than before, and says to the Finn, 'There, now, go and get that.'"

The little angel at the bottom of the Sistine Madonna pictures, with his cheek on his little hand, looks no happier than does Joe Bannon telling you about Pat O'Callaghan. Bannon is Irish.

YOU REALLY ought to come out and see these Olympic Games. Or, if it is too late for you to see the games, come and see something much more important, this glorious Pacific Coast, from Seattle all the way down to the Mexican border, and all the thousands of miles of beautiful country between the Atlantic and Pacific.

You will feel much embarrassed, if they ask you in Heaven, "Tell us about your country," and you are obliged to answer "I never saw much."

WALKER GETS HEARING AT ALBANY

the room, including a number of state officials.

ROOSEVELT ARRIVES

As Gov. Roosevelt arrived on the arm of Guernsey Cross, his private secretary, absolute silence prevailed.

Without delay, Gov. Roosevelt read a statement which outlined the law and constitutional power under which he is authorized to hold the present public hearing on the removal of Mayor Walker.

He reviewed the history of the Walker case. He flatly rejected the Mayor's contention that he could not be removed for any acts committed during the first administration.

The Governor insisted he had the power to remove "to purge the public service of an unfit officer" in the event such unfitness was established.

Gov. Roosevelt revealed that he had received a letter last night from Mayor Walker asking that he be permitted to call the witnesses who testified in the Hofstadter legislative committee hearing. Gov. Roosevelt said:

"It is not my intention to hear arguments on this request at this time. It should be made clear that this is a hearing that will be conducted for the sole object of providing justice for the accused and the people of the state.

"In that spirit of justice this hearing will be conducted."

Turning in the direction of Mayor Walker, he said he would not close the door on any witnesses for the Mayor, providing the Mayor could prove that such witnesses are necessary to his defense.

DEFENDS WALKER

When the Governor concluded his statement, John J. Curtin, special counsel to Mayor Walker, arose and addressed the Governor. He said:

"Let's throw away the lawbooks, let's tackle this from a human standpoint.

"What's all this about? My first proposal is to prove that a matter of fair play is involved. Let's see what we are dealing with. These charges are of a serious nature."

Curtin told of Mayor Walker's career of upwards of 20 years in public life. He said:

"At no time in his long political career did the public do otherwise than indorse him.

"I want to make myself understood. I propose to call things by their right name."

Gov. Roosevelt sharply interrupted Walker's counsel, saying:

"Before you proceed further I want to stress the point that the purpose of this hearing relates to the evidence and testimony made under oath. Therefore, I hope you can confine to the evidence. I must insist that you do that."

Curtain said "all right, your excellency," and continued with his argument after an apology to the Governor. He then proceeded in this vein:

"Fair dealing, your excellency, calls for producing face to face the witnesses who appeared against the Mayor. In no other way can you intelligently make up your mind where the truth lies."

ROOSEVELT SILENT

Gov. Roosevelt, in the past 24 hours, has devoted considerable time to the Walker case. No indication was given by the Governor regarding what his ultimate decision will be. However, there was much speculation in Albany today on this point and rumors were rife that there was a strong probability the Governor would remove Walker. It was also reported, on the other hand, that close advisers of the Governor had informed him it would be a legal and political mistake to remove the Mayor. The Governor has insisted there will be no politics involved in his decision.

The Governor has been in lengthy conference at the executive mansion with Edward J. Flynn, Secretary of State, and one of Roosevelt's closest political advisers. Politicians around Albany say Flynn thinks it would be a political mistake for the Governor to remove Walker.

Mr. Roosevelt also has been going over the case with Martin Conboy, special assistant counsel in the Walker matter. A few days ago "Big Jim" Farley, Roosevelt's campaign manager, was a visitor at the executive mansion. Rumors have it that Farley also believes the ousting of Walker from office would hurt the Roosevelt cause.

the people of the United States than the Hoover administration has been.

Still, with all these conditions, the Hearst papers would not want Governor Roosevelt to sacrifice one jot or tittle of absolute justice in the case of Mayor Walker.

It would be better that the Democracy of New York, and that the Democracy of the nation, should go down to defeat rather than have justice influenced by personal or party considerations.

But in the case of Mayor Walker no conclusive indictment has been brought against him, notwithstanding many months of arduous and expensive effort; and the natural, Democratic attitude for any man who believes in the Democratic principle of popular government to take is that the people of New York City should be allowed to pass upon their own political affairs, and should be permitted to approve or disapprove of the public course of their own Mayor; and should be allowed to reject him or re-elect him, according to their own best judgment, in view of all the facts and assertions which have been prepared and presented to the electorate.

ANY other course would as a matter of fact be utterly undemocratic—more undemocratic, more dictatorial, more arbitrary, more despotic—than any attitude which any other Governor of New York State, Democratic or Republican, has taken in the past when confronted with similar conditions.

The people of this country have had enough of despots in high office, who over their own signature express contempt for public opinion, who take the people's government into their own hands, and who go to extreme lengths to compel the acceptance of their own opinions or prejudices.

American citizens generally, regardless of party, would like to think that Governor Roosevelt is a different type, that he is an old-fashioned Democrat, who believes in popular government, and local self government, and realizes that the American people have competence enough and conscience enough to manage their own political affairs successfully and justly, too.

UPTURN SOUND, SAYS FESS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—The adjournment of Congress, the administration's economic relief program and settlement of the German reparations problem has brought a definite improvement in business conditions, that will be lasting, Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, former Republican national chairman, declared today.

This improvement in business, said Fess, will aid in re-electing President Hoover. He confidently predicted Ohio would go Republican again in the fall.

Fess discredited reports that the upward movement in the New York Stock Exchange was being "manipulated." He said it was "far too broad" to be manipulated and included not only stock values but commodity and farm prices.

FALSE ALARM BRINGS FINES

Two girls and a youth, accused by Capt. William Mullen, of Engine Company No. 42, North Side, of having sounded a false alarm from Grantham and East Robinson streets, August 5, were fined in Morals Court today. The accused, Gerrard Miller, 17, of 918 Federal street, was fined $25 or $30 days in the workhouse, Bertha Galiski, 19, of 606 East Robinson street, $15 or 20 days in jail, and Catherine Shebo, 16, of 517 Lockhart street, $5 or five days in jail. It was testified in the last six weeks there have been between 25 and 30 false alarms sounded on the North Side.

Mrs. Caraway Wins By Landslide Vote

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The vote by which Senator Hattie W. Caraway was renominated reached landslide proportions as returns were tabulated.

She had much more than a two to one lead over her nearest rival, Maj. O. L. Bodenhamer, of El Dorado, former national commander of the American Legion.

Town Holds 'Funeral' For Last Trolley

STILLWATER, Minn., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A strange "funeral procession" made its way down Stillwater streets early today.

Headed by a band playing a funeral dirge, Stillwater citizens escorted from the car barns to the city limits the last street car to operate in this city. The car was draped in crepe.

Highwayman Robs Pair Aiding Him

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 11.—A highwayman they observed lying in the middle of the Petersburg-New Middleton road and whom they assisted, robbed Joseph Fitch and J. Klein of $20 and all their clothing.

Firemen Haggle As Stables Burn

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—While firemen were trying to find somebody to authorize them to go fight it, fire destroyed the riding stables of Dean Cunningham, near here, with a loss estimated at $6,000. Livestock was saved.

The firemen sought Chief Ed Green and Safety Director Ed Cook before Mayor J. C. McMaster finally authorized them to go to the fire—45 minutes too late.

Narcotic Cigarets Make Girl Insane

TIFFIN, O., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Cigarets containing narcotics were blamed by county authorities today for the mental condition of a 21-year-old Fostoria, (O.) girl adjudged insane. The girl, arrested after attempting two automobile thefts, broke furniture in the jail and became violent in court. Physicians said she had been smoking cigarets containing a Mexican narcotic.

4th Suspect Held In Bank Robbery

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 11.—Frank Gillingham, 26, of Montour Mine No. 9, Washington County, is held by state police here charged with being the fourth member of a robber gang that held up the Smithton National Bank, Smthton, Pa., July 29, 1931, and escaped with $1,000.

Others held are Jess Sager, his son Earl, both of Smithton, and Richard Dawson, Washington County.

Ex-Premier to Form New Carol Cabinet

BUCHAREST, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Alexander Vajda-Voivoid, who resigned his premiership following the last parliamentary elections, today again attempted to form a new cabinet.

Vajda-Voivoid was called upon by King Carol after former Premier Julio Maniu, head of the country's strongest party, the National Peasant party, refused to form a cabinet.

Ex-Bank Officer Jailed in Shortage

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 11.—O. A. Adrian, former secretary-treasurer of the Safe Deposit and Trust Company, of Greensburg, was in jail today in default of $25,000 bail, facing three additional charges of embezzlement and abstraction of funds, involving $420,000, according to J. D. Swigert, bank examiner, who preferred the charges. The total alleged defalcations is now $500,000.

Stiffkey Rector's Ban Made Official

STIFFKEY, England, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A notice signed by the Bishop of Norwich and prohibiting the Rev. H. F. Davidson, rector of Stiffkey, from performing any church services, was formally affixed today to the door of the church.

The rector was found guilty last month of acts of immorality committed while he posed as a reformer and friend of fallen women.

Home for Jobless 'Gentlemen' Provided

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A home for "gentlemen out of work" is the philanthropic hobby of two socially prominent young men of this city—Lloyd Coates and Carrol Righter. Inhabitants of the home, Coates and Righter say, must prove themselves men of "good character." Among the white-collared jobless to enjoy the hospitality of the home have been lawyers, artists, writers and a doctor.

FOUR GUNMEN ROB AUTOIST

Four gunmen leaped into P. M. Clark's automobile as it stopped at Sherman avenue and West Ohio street early today, forced him into the rear seat and drove him to Jack's Run, where they put him out after taking his wallet containing $5, according to a police report. Clark lives at 836 Grand avenue.

Shortly after Clark reported the robbery, radio police found the car at Cedar avenue and West Ohio street.

Three armed bandits, early today, held up Joseph Clark in his confectionery, 1510 Columbus avenue, and took $27 from the cash drawer, according to police. Clark said the bandits took his watch, but returned it.

PRIEST KILLED IN PARIS CRASH

Father Daniel Egan Cunnane, 42, formerly of St. Paul's Monastery, South Side, died today in Paris of injuries sustained in an automobile accident, according to word received here.

Father Cunnane completed his studies for the priesthood at St. Paul's, having entered the novitiate in 1911. He left here six years ago and has since been stationed in St. Michael's Monastery, Union City, N. J.

At the time of the accident he was on a trip abroad, which included a visit to his home in County Mayo, Ireland. Father Cunnane was known throughout the east for his work as a missionary and retreat master.

Soda Water Geyser Discovered in Park

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A cold geyser which spouts soda water has been discovered in Yellowstone National Park. Playing to a height of about three feet, the water is filled with bubbles caused by carbon dioxide gas. The water, however, is not flavored.

Brentwood Estate Willed to Sister

Minnie E. Cowan Woods, of Brentwood, left the bulk of her $19,500 estate to her sister, Rachel Johnson, according to her will, which was filed for probate today. Two lots were willed to the Brentwood Presbyterian Church. Christie Loper, of Aspen street, left her $16,500 estate to her children and grandchildren.

Dates for Voters To Qualify for November Polls

Here are the dates on which residents of Allegheny County may qualify to vote for President and other offices at the November election:

September 7—Last day to be assessed for payment of poll taxes, a tax receipt being necessary to register.

September 8—First registration day in second and third-class cities, including Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

September 20—Second registration day.

October 8—Third and last registration day, also last day to pay poll taxes.

September 6 and 7—Register assessors will sit at polling places in boroughs and townships to list those who may have been omitted in house-to-house canvass.

Range Fires Clothes, Woman in Hospital

Burns received when Mrs. Edith Serbin's clothes caught fire from a gas range in her home, 1823 Bedford avenue, today, will not be fatal, according to the Passavant Hospital, where she was taken.

Mrs. Servin's 19-year-old daughter, Yetta, and Mrs. Virginia Daniels, 1806 Monaca place, beat out the flames and called the ambulance.

SEE CONTEMPT IN MARRIAGE

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The divorce and remarriage in Reno of Capt. John Wanamaker, Jr., created renewed interest today in the preliminary injunction against such divorce, granted in the Montgomery County court on July 20 on the petition of the first Mrs. Wanamaker.

The question of whether Capt. Wanamaker could be held in contempt for violation of the injunction, counsel for Mrs. Wanamaker said, rests solely with Judge J. Ambler Williams who granted the preliminary order. Counsel said it would be indelicate to make any comment while the case is pending.

Attorneys for Capt. Wanamaker moved last week for the dismissal of the injunction on the grounds that Wanamaker is not a resident of Montgomery County and that the Montgomery County court lacks jurisdiction to restrain legal action in Nevada. This petition was held under advisement.

Hearing on an application to make the injunction permanent has been fixed for September 16.

Husband Is Held In Love Slaying

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 11.—Scores of curious were disappointed here today when the public was excluded from the inquest into the love slaying of Mrs. Laura Clutter Clark, 23, last week. Harry A. Clark, the woman's husband, was held for the grand jury on a charge of murder.

DRIVER BEATS MILK THIEF

It's dangerous business to draw a knife on Martin Eichel, a milk-wagon driver, of 253 Republic street.

William Jones, Negro, 45, of Trent street, did just that at 5:45 a. m., today, in Seventh avenue, Eichel testified in Central Police Court. Jones also tried to stab another driver, John Ziegler, of 1231 Paulson avenue, Eichel said.

So, Eichel said, he punched Jones and he was still unconscious at the count of 10.

According to the drivers, Jones was stealing milk from their wagons. Jones was fined $60, with an option of 60 days in the workhouse.

TWO HURT AS BUS HITS TREE

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A Pittsburgh-bound bus from Atlantic City skidded into a tree last night and injured two passengers who live in Harrisburg, Pa.

James W. Cox, driver of the bus, operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad, told police he swerved the vehicle to avoid a head-on collision with an approaching automobile. Twenty other passengers were marooned in the rain more than an hour waiting for another bus to pick them up.

TARGET DRILL FOR MILITIA

CAMP PRIVATE EDWIN HYDE RAUB, TOBYHANNA, Pa., Aug. 11.—Six hundred National Guard soldiers from the Pittsburgh district have launched their summer training program outlined by Capt. Ralph N. Steimer. More than 80 per cent of the regiment already has qualified with the service pistol under supervision of Capt. A. L. Wintersteen.

With the completion of the encampment program, it has been reported, more than 70,000 rounds of ammunition will have been used in their target practices.

PICCARD FLIGHT AGAIN DELAYED

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Prof. Auguste Piccard decided today, because of unfavorable weather reports, that he would not take off for his second flight into the stratosphere before Saturday.

He said the final decision on whether he would make the attempt Saturday would have to depend on weather reports in the meantime. Originally he planned to make the trial tomorrow and was ready to begin inflating the balloon this afternoon.

Priest Who Saw Rites For Lincoln, 89, Dies

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—The Rt. Rev. Mgs. Christopher T. McGrath, 89, oldest priest in the Boston archdiocese, died today at the rectory of St. Joseph's Church.

While a student at St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, he marched with other students in the funeral procession of President Lincoln.

Wife Thought Bandit Shot by Husband

WARREN, O., Aug. 11.—Hearing his wife walking in the room last night and thinking she was one of the "bedroom bandits" terrorizing this district, William Morgan, 61, shot his spouse in the chest with a revolver, he informed police. At Warren Hospital attendants said she would recover.

Woman Is Held In $2,300 Robbery

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

Members of one of the largest organizations of society women, the Federation of Girls' School Societies, are having their troubles during the depression. For demands on the Harmarville Convalescent Home for Women and Children, which the Federation maintains near Harmarville, Pa., are increasing. Miss Lillian Dermitt, secretary, said:

"We're having many more undernourished children to take care of than formerly. And funds are running low."

The Home is one of the many institutions sharing with the Welfare Fund.

Harmarville is really a home, bright and cheery inside with gay, cool chintzes and comfortable chairs and a restful feeling of spaciousness. Window boxes flaunting bright-hued flowers and lawns with shady spots beneath the trees also go far in making the place a delightful spot for mothers, recovering from serious illnesses, and their small children.

Real Home

The rest, good food and pleasant atmosphere aid the mothers in regaining their health so that they may return home, enabled to care for their families.

Mrs. George Singer Ebbert is president of the society, and nearly every young matron, post-debutante and social leader, belong to the Federation.

Girl Scout Leaders From Three States Register For 'Redwing' Course

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

"Redwing," Allegheny County Girl Scout camp at Ribold Station, is to have a two-weeks regional training course beginning Monday. Miss Adelaide Warner, regional director; Miss Jean Christy, of the national camp advisory board, and Miss Louise Harris, who will take charge of dramatics, will give the course, which is intended for camp leaders and counsellors.

Among those who have signed up for the course are young women from troops in West Virginia, Ohio and Eastern Pennsylvania and, in addition, the older girls in camp will attend the sessions, which are to be conducted much after the plan of a regulation camp day. Greenwood will house the visitors and the sessions will take place at the pioneer log cabin.

This week the campers at Greenwood have had a three-day overnight camp two and a half miles from "Redwing." A new and primitive camp was set up by the girls themselves, cooking was done imu fashion—in a rock-heated hole dug deep in the ground—all of which counts for credit towards a pioneer badge.

Overnight Camp

Some exceptionally nice work is being done in the new hobbies at 'Redwing' this year, especially in leather, clay and brush work. This last includes substantial little footstools. Emphasis has been placed on using material at hand and from this has emerged flower baskets, tooth brush holders and bead looms, all made from twigs.

A meeting of the Open Card Club will take place tomorrow afternoon in Kaufmann's in charge of the president, Mrs. Belle P. Smith.

A bridge dinner will be held next Thursday evening at the Westmoreland Country Club by the Pittsburgh Business and Professional Women's Club.

Thirty-eight tables were in play yesterday at the bridge breakfast given at the Congress of Clubs. The table favors were especially pretty cooky jars with wicker handles. The profusion of floral decorations came from the gardens of Mrs. Harold M. Irons, chairman of the party, and Mrs. John Kane.

Edward Milller, Jr., Marries at Chicago

Miss Mildred Whitcomb, of Maywood, Ill., and Edward McPherson Miller, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McPherson Miller, of Jeannette, Pa., were married Tuesday evening in Chicago, Ill., in the Mont Clare Lutheran Church by the Rev. E. Ray Morath. After a wedding trip, they will be at home in Maywood, Ill.

Miss Mary Wortman Weds Edward C. Martin

Mrs. Carrie S. Wortman, of Knoxville, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Mary P. Wortman, to Edward C. Martin, son of Mrs. Emma Martin, of Mt. Lebanon, which took place Saturday, at the home of the bride's grandfather, with the Rev. W. A. Jones, of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, A. P. Shearer, was attended by Miss Harriet Virginia Miller, of Brookline. Donald Lewis, of New York and Brookline, was best man, and Aileen Martin, niece of the bridegroom, acted as flower girl. Mrs. C. F Miller played the wedding march.

The bride wore shell pink chiffon, and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and baby's breath. Her bridesmaid wore pale blue crepe and carried sweetheart roses with delphinium. The little flower girl was in pink organdie and carried pink rose petals.

The wedding ceremony was performed before jardinieres of ferns in the corner of the living room. Summer flowers in pastel shades decorated the home for the reception which followed the ceremony.

Immediately after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Martin left for a motor trip in the East and will be at home in Brookline later.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. For the last several years she has been acting as secretary to the late Dr. Edward Rynearson of the Board of Education.

Miss Ann McHattie Weds W. V. Dublin

Miss Ann Jean McHattie, daughter of P. D. McHattie, of Oakland, and William V. Dublin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dublin, of Southern Highlands, were married yesterday afternoon by the Rev. William Henry Williams, pastor of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, in the church manse.

Miss Edna Fahrenhold was maid of honor, and Robert Baer was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Dublin are now motoring to Yellowstone National Park.

Recent Bride Honor Guest At Bridge-Luncheon

Country club entertainments continue to lead the vogue in social affairs these August days for folks staying in town. The Edgewood Country Club is the scene this afternoon of a bridge-luncheon Mrs. J. C. Morrow, of Wilkinsburg, is giving for her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Balsley.

Before her recent marriage, Mrs. Balsley was Miss Mildred Morrow. She attended Penn Hall, University of Pittsburgh, and Mary Baldwin College.

The Church of the Assumption, Bellevue, will hold a harvest home festival Wednesday and Thursday evenings, September 7 and 8.

Westmoreland Club Holds Pageant Today

An interesting event of today is the outing and bicentennial pageant which the 4H Clubs of Westmoreland Club are having at Oakford Park, Jeannette, in charge of W. L. Treager, county agent, and Miss Beatrice Esterline, home economics extension chairman. Taking part in the pageant, "The Youth of Washington," is the Ligonier Junior Flower Club, a group of 40 children ranging in age from 9 to 14 years, which is sponsored by the Woman's Club of Ligonier. These youngsters are giving a minuet in costume under the direction of Miss Margaret Gaskin.

BETWEEN-SEASON MODELS MAKING FIRST APPEARANCE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 11. — Paris has already begun to plan for the early days of fall, when clothes must provide for a combination of cold weather with warm. Many of the important designers are showing the first of the wool coats, the woolen dresses and the sweaters that make up between-season wardrobes.

THERE ARE many little jackets and vests among these new autumn clothes. They are cleverly done—made to wear under unlined coats, to give enough warmth for cool days without adding any bulging lines. Flannel, cashmere and finely knitted weaves are among the materials that make these vests and under-jackets. Some of them are sleeveless, some have little shoulder tabs to serve as sleeves and a few have full tight sleeves that will fit easily under coat sleeves.

* * *

VERA BOREA makes two of these vests to wear under a light coat. Both may be worn at once without too much bulk—one is of flannel, one of knitted wool.

THE FLANNEL vest, in red, looks more like a blouse, and may be worn in lieu of a blouse. It has sleeves and fits tightly about the waist and ribs. It fastens across the back, leaving the front completely smooth and undecorated. The knitted jacket is deep cream colored and has a tiny collar that stands up about the throat. There are short sleeves in the puffed manner, and purling at the waistline fits the garment close around the body.

* * *

BOTH VESTS are visible at the opening of the black wool coat, which has a double-breasted fastening and wraps closely around the body. Buttonholes and rings for lacings replace customary fastenings.

HOOVER ON AIR -:- 'Crazy People' on WCAE; Spaeth Makes Debut -:- NEW FEATURES

G. O. P. Acceptance Address By President on Three Stations Here

Herbert Hoover's address of acceptance of the Republican renomination for the presidency of the United States will be heard throughout this country, Europe, Africa and South America when the notification ceremonies at Constitution Hall, Washington, are broadcast over NBC and CBS networks, including WCAE, KDKA and WJAS, tonight. The broadcast is scheduled to begin on WCAE and KDKA at 10 and on WJAS 15 minutes later. KDKA and WGY, Schenectady, will short-wave the address to foreign countries.

Complete details call for Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican National Committee, to introduce Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, who will deliver the address of notification. The President's reply will then be broadcast.

Mr. Snell

This is the second acceptance speech heard by the American electorate this year. When Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee, flew to Chicago to accept his party's nomination, his address was heard over nation-wide networks.

HERBERT HOOVER

The President's acceptance address is carried from Washington on Stations WCAE, KDKA and WJAS tonight at 10.

Three new programs make their bows from Pittsburgh stations tonight, while another, absent from the air since April, returns. Riggs and Moke, the popular Crazy Pair of WCAE, and the Andrini Brothers, masters of the strings and humor, join to present a new series on WCAE tonight at 11 known as "Crazy People." Dr. Sigmund Spaeth makes his debut on KDKA at 8:15 as "The Song Sleuth." The "Musical Adventurers," a new Pittsburgh quartet, begin a program of popular hits on WJAS at 9. On KQV at 7:30, Jimmy Zummo's Orchestra returns to broadcasting.

Program Pointers

Mlle. Diane Laval interprets a group of popular selections in French manner during a short recital from the studios of KDKA tonight at 11:20. Included on her program are "Do, Do," from "Okay;" "I'll See You Again," from "Bitter-sweet," and "The Night Was Made for Love," from "The Cat and the Fiddle" . . . On the same station at 5 o'clock today, Samuel Di Primio, Greensburg tenor, is guest soloist during the Silhouettes program, broadcast over an NBC-WJZ network, with a concert orchestra directed by Zoel Parenteau.

Mlle. Laval

Cab Calloway and his Cotton Club Orchestra, playing from the Willows, are heard in two half-hour programs over WWSW tonight at 7:45 and 11.

The familiar voice of Pat Barnes' "Jimtown" characters are duplicated by Ward Wilson on KDKA at 7:15.

John B. Nicklas, Jr., past commander of the American Legion of Allegheny County, discusses the coming state legion convention as guest speaker on KQV's "Pittsburgh Today" presentation at 8.

Ray Perkins discourses on "Farms and State Fairs" on WCAE at 8.

Georgie Price parodies his own tune, "Angel Child," as a highlight on WJAS at 7:45.

A real wild west show, the famed Butte Rodeo, is broadcast over an NBC network including WCAE at 11:30.

Fan Fare

Because Gene Austin, NBC tenor, was always surrounded by a bevy of admiring and attractive girls everywhere he went in Chicago, Bob Kerr, his manager, has placed Gene under a new contract which specifically forbids him to marry for at least five years . . . Ross MacLean made his first public appearance at the age of 7 as an imitator of Harry Lauder . . . Lanny Ross was 6 when he earned his first money singing. He had spent all of his money and was still en route to a boys' school in Montreal, so he mounted a seat in the train to sing for his supper . . . The passengers rewarded him with $1.65 when a hat was passed.

Mr. Austin

Persistence and a combination of circumstances won a spot on the NBC schedule for Ralph Kirbery. Nearly a year ago, after weeks of application and three auditions, Kirbery was called in by Keith McLeod, of the program department, and assigned to the unique schedule of a five-minute broadcast every midnight except Sunday. Because it was a dream which came true, Kirbery chose the name "The Dream Singer."

Howard Claney is one of the most versatile members of NBC's announcing staff. He has been painter, sculptor, actor, theatrical director, cartoonist, soldier and—for only a few days—one of Uncle Sam's mailmen. His parents wanted him to be a clergyman.

Uncle Bob, Betty Read Comics

Uncle Bob and Betty take WCAE fans on another mythical and delightful jaunt through the land of comic page characters as they read the Sun-Telegraph "funnies" tonight at 6 o'clock.

The latest news flashes are broadcast four times daily by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News. He goes on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Blue Blonde

JUNE PURSELL . . . YOU HEAR HER OVER NBC NETWORKS

The fair-haired contralto, who specializes in "torch" numbers, has risen to the radio heights after making her debut on the air quite by accident in California. She sang in a night club and when a radio station owner heard her, he asked her to broadcast. She did and fame followed.

PERSTIK
The NEW WAY TO STOP PERSPIRATION ODOR

Perstik is the cosmetic find of the season. It deodorizes and checks under-arm perspiration. It is applied like a lipstick, easy to carry around with you, always there when you want it. A few touches under the arm and you are assured of all-day protection. Perstik can be used directly after shaving—it will not irritate. Perstik is a pure white, greaseless stick, and wears an attractive black-and-white enamel case.

Black Mansions

Now when the lanes are hot with green
Whose breath takes passion's pulse unseen,
When trees drink fungus from the sky
And earth's bright song is like a cry
Mingled in madness and delight,
When beauty shrinks from its own sight
And hills lean down to house the deer,
When storms paint barns the gray of fear
And violets whet their purple pride
Along the sea-wind's sharper side
I plunge a meadow waved with feet
Which cut a harvest through the street

And take the subway for my well
And drink white face—And it's swell!
—Charles A. Wagner.

Vice-versa!

Peter Arno telephones from Atlantic City to inform us that times are so bad there the ambulances are chasing the lawyers.

At the Berle-ing Point!

Milton Berle, the youthful master-of-ceremonies who is wowing and re-wowing capacity audiences at the Capitol Theater this week, is often chided for lifting material from other acts. Jackie Osterman, upon being asked how he enjoyed Berle's work, is credited with the retort:

"I never enjoyed Phil Baker any better."

However, the smartest criticism came from Richy Craig, Jr., who repeatedly asked Berle to lay off his material. After witnessing Berle's opening performance at the Capitol, Craig went home, wrapped up a dozen of his own photographs in an envelope and dispatched them to Berle by special messenger with the note:

"Put these in the lobby and go the limit."

No Takers

One of the best adagio trios in what is laughingly called show business was compelled to split up last week, according to Benny Davis, the song-writer. The team's greatest trick was to throw the girl out into the audience and have the audience throw the girl back on the stage. But now there's no audience.

God Save the Pound!

The Yurropean nations who have threatened us with going on a silver standard, chirps Ray Perkins, should adopt as their national anthem: "Silver Threats Among the Gold."

Superstitious?

Recently, Major Devine, colored evangelist who conducted revivals at a place called "Heaven" in Sayville, L. I., was tried before Supreme Court Justice Lewis J. Smith on a charge of maintaining a nuisance. During the trial Devine made the crack to Park Rogues that if the judge didn't give him a break he would "call down the wrath of Jehovah." Judge Smith was skeptical of the revivalist's divinity and in questioning witnesses, he showed how he felt about him. Devine was convicted, sentenced to a year behind bars and fined $500. The justice has since died.

Yes, It Did!

George Bricker specials to ask:

"Did it ever occur to you that on Broadway it takes all kinds of peoples to take all kinds of people."

In Defense

The Grandest Canyon is constantly facing the charge of disintegration. Old-timers lament the thousand orange-juice hutches that crown its crossroads, the nude-art exhibits that spread their queues along the sidewalks, the fake fortune-telling establishments and the myriad curb-hawkers who sell you anything from a dancing paper-doll to a frozen dainty on a stick. But the old esprit de corps manifested itself the other day and this bodes well for the future of the street of Rector, Churchill and Ziegfeld. A Coney Island concessionaire applied to the renting agent of a store in the mid-Forties with the idea of erecting a stand where for 5 cents you get three balls to knock-the-hat-off-the-dummy. The store has been vacant and unproductive of revenue for 16 months, and so the agent called the owner of the building for permission. The reply was stern and final. "I've lost $40,000 in the past year on the spot," was the reply, "but I'll not add to the degradation of Broadway, regardless of what it costs me."

Three dramatic cheers from this corner!

Porto Ricopitulation!

Alyce Harris has pounded out a pamphlet on "Porto Rico" which reveals many phases of the island which have never before been published. However, it's her introduction that catches these searching eyes. She says:

"After spending several months in Porto Rico I felt somewhat like the groom who, upon seeing his show-girl wife sans make-up for the first time, hurried to the nearest police station and gave himself up as a bigamist."

From a No-Girl

I went all agog, then a-gaga about this man, then that..
It was really deplorable, they all looked adorable from where I sat.
Me?—Just a Babe in the Woods,
gullible and eager — bold, sentimental, but my experience was meager.
Then Tin Pan Alley Cats taught me this very sad lesson:
That only assistant directors can respectfully keep yessin'.
—Dorothy Gulman.

That's How!

When Irving Hoffman was the "Beau Broadway" of the morning racing sheet, he was approached by an amateur friend who wanted his picture in the paper.

"But we seldom print an actor's picture," responded the columnist. "This is a newspaper devoted to horse racing."

"I know," pleaded the ham. "But can't you make an exception? I've got a lot of friends who read it every day and they'd like to see my picture printed. There must be a way to do it."

"There is," chirped Hoffman. "Go out to the track and run ahead of Morvich."

Yeah!

The yarn about the squawkie star who was in the habit of taking a daily sun bath much to the delight of the males, who secreted themselves in points of vantage, comes from B. Morrow, of Chi.

One day her maid informed her it was cloudy and there was no use going out for a sunning.

"That makes no difference," stormed the actress. "The sun is unimportant, my public comes first."

Indian Sought For Star Role

By HARRISON CARROLL
(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.

Here's another case of the movies taking the mountain to Mohammed. Unable to find enough Indians hereabouts, Universal has chartered an airplane and will send Director William Wyler and a cameraman to Oklahoma City and Lawrence, Kan., where they will make tests for the lead in "Laughing Boy."

With the starting date of the picture postponed four times now for lack of a leading man, the studio is desperate. Carl Laemmle, Jr., has always felt that the hero of the Oliver La Farge novel should be a real Indian, but allowed his assistants to test dozens of Hollywood actors. When none of them proved satisfactory, Universal even canvassed the athletes in Olympic Village.

Clara Bow

Now the young producer has gone back to his original idea and has instructed Wyler to seek the proper type in the two cities mentioned above and if he still is unsuccessful, to go directly to the reservations.

There's a little drama in the diamond ring that Clara Bow received from Rex Bell on her birthday. When the two became engaged, Rex didn't have the money to buy her a ring. Now, they both refer to the new sparkler as an engagement gift . . . George O'Brien is sending his father to Germany to consult a famous heart specialist. Later on, George will join him in Europe. Maybe Ricardo Cortez will go along, if he can get away from R-K-O . . . The two Chaplin youngsters have taken up the study of tap-dancing. Charlie, Jr., by the way, is left-handed like his father . . . It's an old story about the agents who swarm up to a producer when he enters a restaurant or a public place. Nat Goldstone goes this one better by engaging a room next to Junior Laemmle at the hospital . . . The location trip of the "Salomy Jane" company to Sequoia National Park will be a husbands and wives affair. Mrs. Raoul Walsh, Mrs. Charles Farrell, Mrs. Ralph Bellamy and Mrs. Gene Markey are going along to keep their spouses company . . . After shaking hands with one of our haughtier stars, a certain Hollywood wag went around flipping his fingers. To inquiries, he replied:

"I think they're frost-bitten."

Ladies of the Stage and Screen Meet

Katharine Cornell, before closing her tour in "The Barrets of Wimpole Street," on a Los Angeles stage, took a run over to Hollywood for a short visit with Norma Shearer on the set of "Smilin' Through," in which Miss Shearer is starred. Frederic Marsh and Ralph Forbes complete the group.

Like a Letter From the Dead Comes Mrs. Fiske's Note After Four Years

By GEORGE SEIBEL

It is a bit uncanny to get a letter from the dead. I got such a letter the other day from Minnie Maddern Fiske. Don't imagine that I have turned medium or am attending spirit seances, for the explanation is much simpler. The letter was written four years ago, during the summer, and I was in Italy at the time. It was not forwarded, and when I came back it slipped into some other mail, so it was not found nor opened until a few days ago.

The letterhead is the one always used by Mrs. Fiske to show her devotion to the humane cause, in which George Arliss also is deeply interested. There is a picture of a trapped animal, and a quotation from Edwin Markham: "Ladies, are the furs you wear, worth the hell of this despair?"

George Seibel

Mrs. Fiske was always quoting Robert G. Ingersoll—and, by the way, today is the ninety-ninth anniversary of Col. Bob's birth—who said about man's attitude toward animals: "It has been without intelligence, without justice, without mercy."

This letter from the dead illustrates beautifully another trait of Mrs. Fiske's nature, her self-effacing effort to give somebody else credit for something that was her own. I had talked with her about the humane cause and had written down some of the things she said with eloquent conviction. She writes (somehow I cannot use the past tense about a letter I got only the other day):

WORD FROM MRS. BESANT

"I think it would interest you to know that your interview with me was published last winter in the "Theosophist Magazine,' edited by Annie Besant in India. Mrs. Besant wrote at length in praise of your article. I had the magazine for you, but mislaid it. I shall probably find it, and will give it to you when I next come to Pittsburgh. I write you about it because it was YOU who put into beautiful expression some hazy thoughts of my own. If I ever meet Mrs. Besant I shall tell her it was YOU and not I who should have received the praise!

"With warmest good wishes always, Minnie Maddern Fiske."

I thought of Mrs. Fiske, of something she said, when I saw the animal film at the Warner, "Bring 'em Back Alive," which shows a terrific battle between a python and a tiger. I had asked her whether education would ever eradicate the ape-and-tiger spirit in man. And she replied indignantly, "Don't slander the ape and the tiger. They never exhibit wanton malice and cruelty."

She also quoted Dean Inge, who had said that "if the animals were to draw a picture to show their idea of God, every picture might be different. But if they were to draw a picture of the Devil, they would all paint him as a big white man."

HER WIDE SYMPATHIES

Mrs. Fiske was very deeply interested in Theosophy, that revival of Gnostic Neoplatonism which has thousands of followers all over the world. It was started by Madame Helena Petrovna Blavatsky. After her death there was a split, one faction having headquarters at Adyar in India, under Mrs. Besant, the other at Point Loma in Southern California, under Katherine Tingley.

But Mrs. Fiske was interested in everything. She often proclaimed herself a Socialist. It was her heart, rather than her head, that told her where to go, what to believe and what to do. She had sympathy with and for everything and everybody, even dumb animals and even dramatic critics. The last time she was here she seemed worried about my soul, though almost any one in her profession could have told her that dramatic critics have no souls.

Libby Holman In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The first sound motion picture in connection with the Libby Holman-Smith Reynolds tragedy are presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. There are striking airplane views of the magnificent estate, Reynolda, at Winston-Salem, N. C., where the young multimillionaire was shot to death. There are also pictures of the courthouse where Libby and Ab Walker, secretary and chum of the dead youth, will be tried.

Walker is seen as he leaves the courthouse after his release on bail, accompanied by C. C. Hill, the youth in whose honor the barbecue party was given on the night of the fatal shooting.

The current Hearst Metrotone News is being shown in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

The worst fire in Chicago in 30 years is graphically pictured. Half a million persons are seen watching the blaze on the river front which consumed property worth $6,000,000.

Gov. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for the presidency, is shown participating in an exciting game of water polo at Hyde Park, New York. Several newspaper correspondents take part in the contest and are kept busy dodging the expert throws of the big ball by the Governor.

Spectacular scenes of the latest events in the Olympic games include the sensational victory of Eddie Tolan, 100-meter king, in the 200-meter finals; Bill Miller, of Stanford, winning the pole vault; "Babe" Didrikson setting another world mark in the 80-meter hurdles; George Saling, Iowa, capturing the 110-meter hurdles for men, and finally the exciting 400-meter finals in which Bill Carr, of Penn, beats out his old rival, Ben Eastman, Stanford, in a close finish. Deafening cheers from record-breaking crowds follow the result of these events.

Westward

Ann Harding is showing in "Westward Passage," film attraction in the Sheridan Square.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Phantom Fame," in which Lee Tracy and Dupe Velez will play the leads, will be be motivated by material from the book of the same title by the late Harry Reichenbach, king of the press agents of the sensational ballyhoo type. It deals with the exploits of an ingenious creator of means to obtain publicity for motion picture stars in an unusual way—often hoaxes that deluded smart New York editors and obtained first page recognition. Tracy will play the part of such a press agent.

Kay Francis, who went from Broadway to Hollywood a couple of years ago, may return to the New York stage next winter if negotiations under way come through successfully. The lady is under contract to Warner Brothers, who will stipulate that she may remain away from the studio not more than three months, according to reports.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

BY MARK HELLINGER

The Great Believer.

THE GENTLEMAN who unfolded this story to me made two requests. He asked first that I believe the story implicitly. And secondly, he insisted that he wished to remain anonymous. Both of his requests are hereby granted, and we now leap into the yarn with an effulgent avidity, which is very nice when served cold with a dash of lemon.

It seems that Joe Burton, resident of one of the larger cities in upper New York, had been playing the market short for the past two years. When the first of last June rolled around, he decided that enough was plenty. He closed out all his accounts and found that he had $500,000 in cash. Which is not a bad thing to find on a rainy Monday morning. It sort of helps to start the day off in a more pleasant mood.

Let's stroll over to a little restaurant now and discover Joe as he lingers over his coffee. With him is George Summerbottom, his pal throughout the years. As George pours more coffee, Joe pours more words.

"George," he asserts calmly, "you've known me a long, long time. All my life I've been tied up in this town. I like the town—but I've often longed to get away on just one decent trip. I've wanted to get over to Europe and do exactly as I pleased for four or five months. But, somehow or other, I never had the opportunity."

His pal stepped into the conversation at this point, thereby giving us the opportunity to change to the past tense.

"Well," he observed, "if that's all that's on your mind, it looks to me as though your road is very clear. You've just finished telling me that you're now worth half a million. Why not pack up and go exactly where you please?"

"Because," replied Joe rapidly, "I want companionship. You know that may wife's an invalid and I couldn't take her even if I wanted to, which I don't. In this one big fling of my life, I want a real companion—and it must be a woman who is attractive, who will never nag me, has a level head and will enjoy my company."

George grinned.

"See your broker at once," he advised. "Women like that are now selling as low as a million dollars a share."

Joe shook his head.

"I'm deadly serious, George. I've been giving this matter a great deal of thought—and I've almost reached a decision. I've been reading the various Broadway columns and I know that a great many actresses are out of work just at present. Why shouldn't I go to New York, search around a bit and choose some attractive actress who would be willing to go to Europe as my traveling companion?

"So far as I'm concerned, the sex angle is out. I want companionship on this trip, and nothing more. In addition to her expenses, the right girl can have $125 a week from me. The only thing I'd ask her would be to be on the level with me as I'd be with her.

"Do you think I could find such a girl, George?"

George didn't like the idea at all, at all. He tried to point out to his pal the possible consequences of such a trip. There were chances of notoriety, blackmail and what not. But his words fell upon ears that did not want to hear them. And Joe took the train for New York that very night.

The man was no stranger in our nervous city. His business had required his presence here at least once a week over a period of years. The only difference now was that he began to examine the street he had previously avoided.

Through mutual acquaintances, Joe met plenty of Broadway women in short order. Some were fair, some were rare; some were lean, some were mean. After taking a number of them to dinners and to shows, he finally determined that Ethel was the girl for him.

After their third evening together, the man outlined his proposition to the girl. Ethel seemed a trifle shocked at first, but finally admitted that such a trip was something to consider in these days and times. A little more persuasion on Joe's part and the girl agreed to go.

George received an excited phone call from his friend that night and was told that THE girl had been found. As Joe's best pal, would George come to New York the following day and meet her? George would. And the following night found the three of them dining in one of Broadway's favorite restaurants.

During the meal, as the drinks went down and the bill went up, Joe reached into his pocket and drew forth five $100 bills. He gave them to Ethel and said that this was her first month's salary in advance. She placed them in her pocketbook, thanked Joe with a charming smile—and then looked wistfully at him.

"You'll not forget tomorrow morning, will you, dear?" she said. "We'll have to start early because there are so many things I must get if we're to leave on Wednesday. I'll have to get practically an entire new wardrobe. But you do want your Ethel to look well, don't you?"

George swallowed hard. That speech gave him the tip-off on the situation. And when he saw his pal pat the girl's hand gently and tell her he would buy anything she wished, the cold shivers ran up and down his spine. When they finally left Ethel at her home, George tried to do the improper thing.

"Joe," he asserted, "I know this is none of my business, but that girl is a colder proposition than you think. You're being taken over."

"I'll trouble you, George," he said abruptly, "to keep any of your unfavorable impressions to yourself. Ethel is a grand girl and I have implicit faith in her."

"You win," was George's reply.

George was right. Ethel didn't sail. Until 30 seconds before they pulled up the gangplank, Joe stood on the pier with his friend and waited for her. Then, just before he raced aboard, Joe talked.

"You were right, George," he said. "She's not what I thought she was."

About 10 days later, in his home town, George received a cable from Joe that told him all the news. Seems that, on the second day out, a wireless from Ethel informed Joe that she had overslept and missed the boat. If her darling Joe would only send her another $1,000 she'd join him in Paris immediately. And Joe had sent it!

Joe is still in Paris—alone. . .

LEADERS NAMED PALLBEARERS FOR BURKE

76 in Honorary Group For Funeral Here Tomorrow

Men prominent in national business and government affairs will compose the 76 honorary pallbearers at the funeral of James Francis Burke in St. Paul's Cathedral tomorrow morning. The body of the late counsel of the Republican National Committee, which arrived in Pittsburgh from Washington early yesterday, was viewed by hundreds yesterday and today at the home, 820 Devonshire street, Shadyside.

Floral tributes and telegrams of sympathy were received at the home from many sections of the United States.

Seventy-five police and plain-clothesmen will follow the funeral procession and all traffic along the route will be detoured, Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh said today.

HONORARY PALLBEARERS

Honorary pallbearers from out-of-town will be as follows:

Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, military aide to the President; Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War; Walter F. Brown, Postmaster General; Ferry K. Heath, Assistant Secretary of Treasury; George deB. Keim, secretary Republican National Committee; Frank S. Hight, president, Hotel Willard, Washington; Edward F. Hutton, New York; Gen. W. W. Man Gets Divorce On Charge of Nagging

The petition of John A. Strathearn, 430 Camp avenue, Braddock, for a divorce from his wife, Helen W. Strathearn, of 1314 Singer place, Wilkinsburg, because "she continually nagged him," was granted today by Judge George V. Moore.

They were married in 1920 and separated in 1929. Mrs. Strathearn contested the suit.

Strathearn testified his wife threatened to shoot his legs off, that she struck him, and that she nagged him so much he could not sleep and could not conduct his business properly.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

WALSH RESIGNS AS CONSTABLE TO ESCAPE JAIL TERM

LEGISLATURE SCORED FOR AID DELAY

County Funds Avert Crisis in District Temporarily

While relief leaders again denounced the inaction of the special relief session of the state Legislature, Pittsburgh drew its breath today with the local situation apparently temporarily safe.

The Poor Board's $200,000 was slated to be turned over to the Allegheny County Emergency Association, allowing it to issue full food orders of 90 cents per person, from Saturday, for use in the county.

Pittsburgh families were to benefit next week from an $800,000 bond issue, bids on which will be opened Thursday.

Meanwhile, John F. Casey, acting chairman of the operating committee of the Emergency Association, and Wilbur F. Maxwell, secretary of the Welfare Fund, prodded legislators.

URGES STATE ACTION

Casey said:

"There is still time for definite action and it should be forthcoming without further delay. A million men, women and children are waiting for an answer. It is high time to drop petty politics and to bring whatever resources the state has or can muster to bear on the needs caused by unemployment.

"Only thus can we clear the way for additional federal assistance. Pennsylvania's citizens paid in taxes their share of the federal funds available for state aid. If we fail to receive a share of these funds the responsibility will be directly upon the representatives now in Harrisburg."

Maxwell said:

"If there is any reason other than mere sectional interests or petty personal conflicts holding back definite action by the Legislature for relief of unemployment, it is that our representatives in Harrisburg believe their constituents would look unfavorably upon any additional state tax measures.

CITIZENS PAY BILL

"This belief fails to recognize the fact that these citizens must pay the relief bill—if not through state taxes, then through local property taxes or voluntary contributions. Neither of these latter measures is as fair or equitable a distribution of the burden as state tax.

"Only through prompt state action can we hope to have federal aid during the coming winter—a winter that promises to be one of the worst in American history.

"Sufferers from the depression will not soon forget if they go hungry this winter."

Meeting on Relief Set for West Park

A meeting to discuss the relief situation will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in West Park, under auspices of the League for Social Justice. The speakers will include Sidney A. Teller and Dr. Ralph S. Boots. An invitation was sent to Gov. Pinchot and the Emergency Association to have speakers present, those in charge stated.

30,000 Shriners Expected at Outing

Thirty thousand Shriners and their families are expected at the annual outing of Syria Temple tomorrow in Kennywood Park. Two thousand baskets of food will be given away at the picnic to needy families.

The picnic is to begin at 10 a. m., and an athletic program directed by William S. Haddock will start at 2:30 p. m.

Ex-Newspaperman Gets Post in South

Charles F. Gilmore, former Pittsburgh newspaperman, has been chosen executive secretary of the recently organized Community Chest in Charlotte, N. Japanese Beetle Traps Fail to Lure Prey Here

MISS RUTH HARMON, DORMONT . . . 600 TRAPS CAUGHT NONE

City Free of Pests, Federal Survey Indicates

Those mysterious looking contraptions that you have seen lately in several sections of the city are not a new type of lamp, as many people suppose, but Japanese beetle traps.

W. J. Spicer, of 3640 Oakland avenue, who is in charge of the beetle traps in this district, today said:

"Six hundred traps have been placed in Pittsburgh, but not one beetle has been found. Fruit trees and grass lawns in this district are evidently free of the destructive little pest."

The traps were put up over a month ago. They hang on a standard and consist of a baffle, an inverted funnel, an inclosing cylinder, a bait container and a glass jar at the bottom.

The traps were placed by the Bureau of Plant Quarantine of the United States Department of Agriculture for charting the extension of the beetle-infested area. The failure to trap any in this district indicates this area is not infested.

SAVE OLD GEMS, GIVE UP TEETH

Gold teeth will be cheerfully surrendered by those caught in the throes of depression, but it is with reluctance that they dispose of jewels, Harry Lipman, Sixth street gold refiner, said today.

Joy and sadness oftimes walk hand in hand at the Lipman shop, he said. Joy makes its appearance when some heirloom handed down from generation develops a real value. And there is sorrow aplenty when an old jewel carefully preserved for hundreds of years is found to be worthless.

Struck by Trolley, Child Injured

Rose Marie Grande, 5, of 118 Yuba way, today was nursing lacerations and bruises suffered when she was struck by a street car at Wylie avenue and Fernando street, last night. The child was said to have run into the path of the car. She was treated at Passavant Hospital and then taken to her home.

STATE'S RELIEF PLANS STILL UNCERTAIN

Legislators Recess With No Issues Settled

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—A reluctant and confused Legislature today adjourned for the week with none of its problems solved, and with all the issues facing it put off until next week. In both Senate and House there seemed to be a hope that through some magic there would over the week-end come order out of chaos on the subject of relief.

CIGARET TAX

Concerning relief, the Legislature is considering no greater contribution than a tax on cigarets, a dubious expedient which may meet defeat. The total income from this tax, two cents on each package of 20 cigarets, will yield no more than $6,000,000, half the appropriation proposed by the Talbot relief bill.

Bills to tax cosmetics and soft drinks still rest in committee, though administration and organization leaders are endeavoring to rally strength to force them out if the cigaret tax passes the House. The revenue from these sources would be sufficient to match the proposed revenues of the Talbot bill.

If the tax bills fail, as is possible, some increased revenue will be sought through closer collections of revenues already imposed. A renewed effort may be made to transfer money from the highway fund to the general fund for relief, though the suggestion in the Witkin-Blumberg bill that the full amount of $12,000,000 shall be secured has been abandoned.

PINCHOT CONFERS

Economies in governmental expenditure also may be sought as a means of meeting the demands of the Talbot bill. Gov. Pinchot conferred last night with legislative leaders after the conference report on the economy bill of Representative Joseph G. Steedle had been rejected by the House. As offered, this bill provided governmental cuts of slightly less than $14,000,000.

Its opponents insisted that economies of greater magnitude should be made, and the Governor is understood to have agreed that $2,000,000 more shall be cut from operative costs. This bill, back in conference, will come before the Legislature for action again next Monday night.

From the executive-legislative conference is understood to have developed the determination to push the nuisance taxes on cigarets, cosmetics and soft drinks.

Pittsburgh Day Set for Air Races

Pittsburgh has been honored by the National Air Race committee completing plans for the air program to be held in Cleveland, August 27 to September 5, Earl M. Harvey, of Cleveland, said here today. Harvey said Sunday, September 4, had been designated as "Pittsburgh Day."

GLAD GROWERS OPEN SHOW

As approximately 1,000,000 individual gladiolus went on display today at the national showing of the American Gladiolus Society in the William Penn Hotel, an airplane was rushing a huge bouquet of the newly developed variety, "Herbert Hoover," to Mrs. Hoover at the White House in Washington.

The Hoover "glad" was developed by A. E. Kunderd, of Goshen, Ind., one of the largest growers in the country, during the past year and is having its first showing here.

The show occupies the main rooms of the hotel's seventeenth floor. It will continue through Saturday. While more than 1,500 growers throughout the country have entries, 200 local flower lovers have entered the competition for county honors.

The Pennsylvania society is sponsoring the show.

CARMEN VOTING ON 5-DAY WEEK

Operators of cars of the Pittsburgh Railways Company were voting today on a five-day week proposed in an effort to retain some 600 extra men.

The polls opened at 10 a. m. and balloting will continue until late tonight, William Gallagher, president of the local union said. Gallagher said no results will be announced until the entire vote has been tabulated.

The railways company has 1,200 operators' jobs and 1,800 men to fill them, Gallagher said.

Drooping Crop Values At City Farm Call For Revised Methods

With need for an increased food appropriation reported from the City Home and Hospital at Mayview, the city might do well to copy the successful farm methods used at the County Home at Woodville.

Mayview for the last three years reports a decreasing value for its farm products. Woodville has steadily increased the value of its crops until last year it produced almost twice as much as the city institution.

Mayview has dropped chicken-raising as unprofitable. Woodville has a flock of 2,700 laying hens, averaging at present 40 dozen eggs a day and furnishing a large part of the needs of the institution.

Mayview, according to its superintendent, Dr. J. S. Hammers, is considering either eliminating its dairy herd, or doubling it, and making a serious effort to supply the milk requirements of the home.

Woodville has a champion dairy herd that has won a number of blue ribbons. It now includes 94 milking cows, and for the greater part of the year produces more milk than the institution can use. The herd has been built up by the purchase of high grade stock.

Mayview's hog raising activities are dwarfed beside those of the county home. While Woodville's piggery has been criticized as too luxurious, it does shelter 689 hogs this summer.

The value reported for Mayview's farm products for 1929 was $61,503; for 1930, $53,069, and for 1931, $39,350. The value of Woodville's farm products for 1929 was $72,949; for 1930, $75,232, and for 1931, $78,311.

The two farms seem to be about the same type of clay soil. Mayview has 1,001 acres, of which about 400 are said to be tillable. Woodville has 897 acres, of which about 500 are now tillable.

Woodville has been steadily cultivating more land. Its inmates have reclaimed a considerable patch of rich bottom that was formerly swamp and last winter cleared about 40 acres of woodland.

Mayview, with a population of 3,700, is the larger institution. Woodville has about 3,000, including its staff. Both farms have an almost unlimited supply of labor.

Agricultural work is much more highly organized at Woodville than at Mayview. At the county home, the superintendent keeps his eye on the reports, but depends on the farm manager for most of the supervision.

The farm manager has under him six bosses. These are responsible for the work at the dairy barn, horse barn, poultry yard, orchards, gardens and piggery. All are experienced and several are college-trained.

At Mayview, the supervision of the farm is directly under the superintendent, a duty added to many others in connection with managing the large institution. A farmer and helper work under his direction.

ELIMINATE WASTE IN GOVERNMENT

NEGLEY SEWER PLAN VOTED

Council, as a committee of the whole, formally approved the ordinance providing $122,000 for the Negley Run sewer. The government has relocated Lock No. 2 on the Allegheny River, and it is necessary to place the sewer below the dam. Council also approved an engineering expense of $8,000.

It was announced the engineering cost of widening and improving West Carson street has been reduced from $10,000 to $5,000.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 11.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, today is the big surprise day for Mr. Hoover. He is to be notified. Not be-atified, just notified. They are going to tell him that he is to have the extreme pleasure of having nothing on his mind for the next four years but this country. A poor man who has had more hard times thrust on him than any man that ever occupied that high position, then to have a bunch come who were endeavoring to sentence you for four more years, that almost comes under the heading of a blow By the way, Jimmie Walker is to have his notification tomorrow, too. And, oh, yes, Japan is sore at Stimson again. Poor Japan. Stimson has kept those little fellows worried worse than they have our swimmers. Yours, WILL.

OFFERS TO QUIT PUBLIC LIFE IF PAROLED

Scramble Starts for Vacated Political Job In First Ward

Paul Walsh resigned as constable of the First Ward today in an apparent effort to escape a year's jail term for violating election laws.

Judge D. W. Henderson, of Uniontown, who sentenced Walsh, said today he had been requested to hear Walsh's plea for a parole on August 25. The application had not been formally filed.

The resignation presented in behalf of Walsh by Attorney John R. Frankel, to Judge George V. Moore, stated:

"This action is actuated solely by the firm determination of Mrs. Walsh and myself to seek our fortune and livelihood in undertakings far removed from public office and public life."

A scramble for Walsh's post ensued. Two applications were filed with the court, those of Andrew Maloney, reputedly backed by State Senator James J. Coyne, and John P. McDonald, protege of Walsh's father, Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh.

Other applications will be filed later, Judge Moore was informed. He stated he would set a date soon for a hearing as the First Ward is now without a constable or deputies.

FARE CUT GIVEN COMMUTERS

New low rates for part-time commuters on the Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroads will be inaugurated Monday.

In its new rate schedule the Pennsylvania offers a 30-day, 20-trip ticket between suburban stations and Pittsburgh and intermediate stations; a weekly 12-trip ticket and a three-day round-trip ticket.

While offering no reduction of the regular commuter's rates, the new ticket series enables the part-time traveler to save on his transportation and provides for a smaller outlay of money.

The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie will introduce a similar series of tickets, with the 10-trip, 30-day ticket good between Pittsburgh and Brownsville, Connellsville, College and way points.

Speeches, No Loving Cups At Albany

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Our boys are certainly shuffling around this week. Cal Coolidge has brought his hay fever to New York but he can't make it popular.

The Jimmy Walkers are visiting Governor Roosevelts in Albany. Just one of those private affairs for the news reels Speeches without loving cups.

The Hoovers will throw a notification soiree at the White House tonight. They have promised us a surprise in Herbert's acceptance speech. Maybe he will refuse it.

Our society editor doesn't know whether the Smedley Butlers will stay home or not. The General refuses to make any promises.

The King Alfonsos are expecting an interesting event in Madrid. It will be Al's arrival there.

The delightful Monday night recitation by the Stimsons may start a war in Manchuria. Mr. Stimson had no idea it was loaded.

Murder in our polo set doesn't interfere with the social swing. The witnesses are in jail, the jury is locked up and the judge has barricaded himself in the courthouse. Only the lady who did the shooting is out on bail.

STAR SHOWER VIGIL SET TONIGHT

Sixty amateur astronomers of the Pittsburgh district will follow a 70-year-old custom tonight and keep an all-night tryst with the stars.

They will gather in three groups to watch the Perseids, which appear each year in the heavens. The astronomers will meet on the lawn of the Allegheny Observatory, in New Castle and in McKees Rocks.

Leo J. Scanlon, secretary of the astronomy section of the Pittsburgh Academy of Science and Art, said today:

"Regular astronomers have a program of more importance, but it has been the custom of amateurs for the past 70 years to hold an all-night tryst with the stars on this date and watch the Perseid shooting stars."

Each of the 60 astronomers will watch a part of the sky tonight. Each will have a recorder, who will mark down the time, speed, direction, color and peculiarities of each shooting star. Scanlon pointed out:

"These records will be of importance because they will determine the depth of the atmosphere surrounding the earth and also the direction and speed of the swarms of meteorites."

SWISSVALE MAN TRAIN VICTIM

A battered hat found near the wheels of a locomotive in Altoona told the story of the death of Harry Lampman, 51, an interior decorator, of 7523 Lampman street, Swissvale, who was found along the passenger tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, near the Washington Street Bridge, Swissvale, early today, according to a coroner's report.

The crew of a passing train observed the body lying beside the tracks and notified Swissvale police. At the morgue identification was made by his brother-in-law, Harry Borelin.

Railroad attaches reported to the morgue that a hat was found on a Washington-bound locomotive when it arrived in Altoona. The description of the hat tallied with the one worn by Lampman, according to the morgue report.

The train on which the hat was found passed through Swissvale at 11:38.

Borlin said Lampman usually crossed the tracks at the point where his body was found.

SUSPECT TAKEN AFTER CHASE

George Langford, 48, who told police he was from Kansas City, was in the county jail today in connection with the theft of $150 from the cash register of the E. P. Seitz Motor Company, 611 Butler street, Etna, yesterday afternoon, according to Police Chief Samuel Fry, of Etna.

While his alleged accomplice was inquiring the price of an automobile and a truck in the garage of Seitz, Langford was alleged to have walked into the office and looted the cash register.

Two employes of the motor company and several pedestrians joined in the chase and captured Langford in the Spang-Chalfant Company plant, several blocks away.

At a hearing before Justice of the Peace D. E. Giles, of Etna, Langford was held for court.

Byrd's Antarctic Ship in Boston

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The Bear of Oakland, rugged veteran of the ice fields in which Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd plans a second journey into the Antarctic, arrived in Boston harbor last night to be groomed for new adventure beneath the southern lights.

The admiral, with a group of Army and Navy officers, members of former expeditions and guests, sailed down the harbor in the tug Luna to greet the vessel.

County to Deport 92 Needy Mexicans

Mexican cactus and revolutions will again be within reach of any of 92 destitute Mexicans about to be repatriated by the Poor Board, according to an announcement by Maj. J. Clyde Miller, its chairman. The Mexicans—men, women and children—will leave the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Etna station at 10 p. m. Tuesday, taking a burden of about $82 per week from local relief groups.

14 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 1; measles, 1; whooping cough, 7; chickenpox, 1, and pneumonia, 3.

FIVE INJURED BY AUTOS

Five persons, one a state highway patrolman, were injured in automobile accidents yesterday.

State Highway Patrolman G. A. McLaughlin, of Perrysville station, was in Allegheny General Hospital with a fractured right leg suffered when his motorcycle collided with a truck driven, police said, by John Stanton, 52, of 1215 Resaca place, at Sandusky street and East Park way.

When their automobile collided with a truck at Penn and Dallas avenues, Mary Kinkella, 21, of 1705 Ridge avenue, North Braddock, and George Slatz, 50, of 1319 Grandview avenue, North Braddock, were injured. Both were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Anthony Lisko, 50, of 370 Forty-fourth street, was injured seriously when struck by an automobile while crossing Liberty avenue at the Bloomfield Bridge. He is in West Penn Hospital.

Irene Hoover, 7, of 4916 Cypress street, suffered bruises when struck by a hit-and-run auto near her home. She was treated at West Penn Hospital.

Desertion Charged, Man Asks Divorce

Paul Breitenbach, 641 Evergreen road, Millvale, has asked a divorce from Emma Breitenbach, 1425 Napoleon street, charging desertion June 21, 1930.

Keys to City Cheaper, Cut Budget

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Reduction of one item in municipal government expenses was hailed here today as Thomas Brooks, purchaser of supplies, announced "keys to the city" for distinguished guests which had previously cost $3.29 each, are now obtainable at the bargain price of $1.

KILLED BY FALL UNDER TRAIN

Falling beneath the trucks of a freight car which he attempted to board near the Port Wayne Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad last night, Frank J. McNally, Jr., 32, of 515 Merchant street, North Side, was killed, the Coroner's office reported.

McNally and two others, Charles Nelson, 25, of Penn avenue, Rochester, Pa., and Edward Pouwells, 26, of 520 Arch street, planned to "hop" a freight to Chicago. Nelson and Pouwells told North Side police who detained them for questioning by the Coroner. The victim's body was removed to the morgue where Mrs. Florence McNally, his wife, identified it.

Vogel Named Head Of Grotto Outing

William H. Vogel has been appointed chairman of Sunday's outing for Islam Grotto Auto Club members and their families, to be held at Camp Cowley, Evans City. William F. Eck, club president said today. An automobile caravan will be operated to the camp.

LEAP TO RIVER FOILED

Joseph Gonzales, of 1411 Fifth avenue, reported to North Side police early today that he had pulled an unidentified man from the railing of the Sixth Street Bridge as he was getting ready to leap. He walked the victim over the bridge to Isabella street and left him, he reported.

At the same time C. Painter, of Alpine street, North Side, told North Side police a man, apparently intoxicated, stopped him at the Federal street approach of the bridge and announced his intention of jumping off the span.

River Patrolman Charles Snyder was notified, but dropped his investigation when he learned descriptions of the two men did not tally.

BOND CLAIMED, MAN GIVES UP

Robert (Red) Crystol late yesterday surrendered to the United States marshal to begin a six months' jail sentence for violating the prohibition law, three hours after the Federal Court had declared forfeited a $2,000 bond he had posted pending his appeal to the United States Circuit Court.

He was notified July 26 that the higher court had affirmed his conviction and sentence in the District Court and directed him to surrender August 1 to the marshal, which he failed to do. Yesterday morning Judge F. P. Schoonmaker forfeited the bond and issued a bench warrant for his arrest, but Crystol appeared in the Federal building before it was served on him.

DEATH OF BOY IN RIVER LAID TO DIVER

The death of William R. Wingold, 15, of 1326 Marvista street, North Side, in the Franklin street pool of the Ohio River last night, was being investigated by the Coroner's office today.

Woods Run police, believing the boy drowning, attempted to resuscitate him with an inhalator. He was pronounced dead by a physician after the police had worked more than an hour.

Master Wingold

A short time after the victim's body had been removed to the morgue, Mrs. F. R. Braun, of 1334 Columbus avenue, telephoned Deputy Coroner Stanley Guzenski that another boy had dived on the Wingold boy's back from the side of the diving board.

Guards Joseph Cody and Robert Timmons reported they were closing the pool at 9:14 p. m. when the boy's body was discovered, according to River Patrolman Charles Snyder. They immediately recovered the body and tried to revive the boy, Snyder said he learned.

Further examination of the body led deputy coroners to believe Wingold's neck had been fractured. An autopsy will probably be held today.

North Side Man, Jobless, Ends Life

Jobless and homeless, Henry Heinruch, 70, walked into a wooded section off East Serene street, North Side, not far from his former home, and fired a bullet into his head late yesterday, according to police report. Two men found the body with a revolver clutched in the right hand.

Hill Top Merchants Hold Annual Picnic

The annual outing of the Hill Top Business Men's Association is being held today at West View Park. Free tickets were to be given the children. A program of sports and athletic events are to be features of the outing.

Capt. Wyndam with his wife and baby. The three seem to have found bliss in a scheme that is planned to make a "perpetual honeymoon" of marriage

How to Be HAPPY Though MARRIED!

Ingenious English Couple Invents a "Perpetual Honeymoon" Which Seems to Work Out Successfully and Very Happily

CONSIDERABLE attention has been attracted in England by an unusual experiment now being conducted to avoid controversies and unhappiness in marriage. The test is being made by Captain Richard Wyndam and his wife, both well known in social circles.

Why Test Is Being Made?

To keep romance alive, the Wyndams have made a cold-blooded analysis that seems to be helpful. They are conducting the experiment because they want to make certain that their marriage will be a success. They decided on the test even before they were married. Instead of rushing headlong to the altar on the theory that true love is all that is necessary, they backed off and studied matrimony. This study is the basis for their experiment.

Want to Know What It Is?

You'll find a complete explanation in next Sunday's American Weekly.

WAY CLEARING FOR COX PARTY CONVENTION

The Rev. James R. Cox, who heads a flock of jobless to a national Jobless-Liberty party convention at Clayton, Mo., next week, today was notified by an aide that the way was about clear for the gathering at the Creve Couer speedway.

N. G. Bayster, by air mail, notified Attorney Austin Staley, Cox lieutenant, that all conditions except the demanded water supply have been met. This condition, Bayster told Staley, could be met, if necessary, by the installation of a water main.

Simultaneously, Father Cox, in a telegram to President Hoover, asked him to direct the field agent of the United States Public Health Service at Clayton not to interfere with the convention there August 17. The agent, Dr. L. C. Obrock, had banned the meeting, declaring it would constitute a health menace.

CRITIC OF COX ATTACKED

It's quite all right to denounce government, capitalism, President Hoover and Congress to residents of Heidelberg, but to rap Father James R. Cox is to carry it too far.

A Communist speaker, addressing a crowd of 300 on Washington road, Heidelberg, found that out last night. His meeting moved along smoothly until he attacked the policies of Father Cox, Jobless Party leader. He was booed and threatened and knocked from the table on which he was standing. When he attempted to speak again he was silenced and told to leave town.

Man Fined as Bogus Cox Fund Collector

Louis Youhas, 53, of 504 East Robinson street, declared by police to have posed as a collector for Father Cox's "Blue Shirts," was fined $10 in North Side Police Court today. He had collected $2.45 from North Side housewives, police said.

'Spot' Killing Fails, Two Suspects Held

Alleged to have attempted to put a Wheeling (W. Va.) junk dealer "on the spot," Thomas Di Angelo, 30, of 931 Robinson street, and George Kattell, 30, of 176 Wabash avenue, were held for the West Virginia authorities today in Central Police Court. Herman Slauss, the junk dealer, identified the men as the two who beat him with black jacks.

Patrolman Albert Megale, of Wheeling, testified a bootlegger hired the men to kill Slauss.

Raging Flood Sweeps Harbin's Main Streets

TOKIO, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The swirling flood which has wrought havoc in Central Manchuria for the past two weeks rushed in on the main streets of Harbin today, a dispatch to the Rengo News Agency said, and traffic was being maintained by boats.

The principal banks and business houses were forced to close and the power station was flooded, threatening to shut off the city's light and power.

JURY TO PROBE FUNK BOMBING

Herman Funk, formerly a prohibition agent and now a deputy constable in Braddock Township, and who says it isn't safe to live in Allegheny County if one is honest, is going to tell a grand jury about the bombing of his home.

County Detectives John T. Burke and Edward Frank complained that Funk says he knows the bombers, but won't tell, assured themselves of Funk's testimony when they had Alderman Thomas Geary issue John Doe informations charging bombing against the bombers. Funk will be subpenaed as a witness.

A bomb was tossed through a cellar window of Funk's home in Brinton road, Braddock Township, last Friday.

County detectives said on Monday Funk failed to name the bombers, but promised to return Tuesday. Failing to return, he telephoned that he had received a threatening letter, detectives said.

Sentence Illegal, 2 Jailed Artists Set Free

Two young artists who went to jail because they wanted to paint the landscape won their freedom today.

When Clarence Neads, 5228 Second avenue, and Alfred Heimich, North Elizabeth street, were arrested for trespassing on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks in Sharpsburg, they explained they were simply looking for something to paint.

But Justice Anthony Ferraro sentenced them to a $5 fine or 10 days in jail.

Today, in a habeas corpus proceeding, Judge Thomas M. Marshall pointed out that the sentence was illegal—the law says the number of days in jail shall equal, not exceed, the number of dollars fined.

FALL INTO SLAG KILLS WORKER

Alex Milkovich, 44, a laborer, 2702 Jane street, was burned to death when he lost his balance and fell over a guard rail into a pit of molten slag in the open-hearth of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, South Side, early today.

A fellow workman attempted to enter the pit to rescue Milkovich, but was held back by others. Milkovich had been in the employ of the corporation for 20 years.

ASK CLERIC PAY DEATH PENALTY

MUSKOGEE, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—County Attorney Phil K. Oldhan said today he would ask the death penalty for the Rev. S. A. Berrie, 52-year-old hymn writer, under indictment for the murder of his first wife, who died of poison last March 21.

Berrie faced arraignment late today after a delay of 24 hours at his request.

His 19-year-old bride, whom he married in May, has been exonerated by authorities of any connection with the death of the first Mrs. Berrie.

Cut Out Bad Habit Before He Becomes Permanent

He neglects her for others when they're out together.

And he just can't say "no" if some girlie phones him for a date.

And are these things making Mona so mad she's giving him the air? No, indeedy! They're not! Goofy as it may seem, she's sure she'll have a broken heart if she loses him, and she wants us to tell her some recipe that'll bind him to her palpitating side!

Well, some girls are certainly gluttons for grief!

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I have a problem, and I need your advice. Here it is. I hope you can help me.

FICKLE PERSON

"For seven months I have been going with a boy 'steady.' I've gone with him off and on for three years, so you see I am quite used to him. But I do not know whether I love him or not, as he does things at times that make me hate him, such as picking up other girls—not a nice sort at all—being too attentive to other girls when he is in my company, and things like that. This makes me wonder if he really cares about me. I suppose other people wonder, too.

"It seems as if he likes me, and all the other girls, too, which doesn't make me feel so good. Still he takes me out 'steady.'

But I'm so afraid that he'll leave me, after going together so long, because he is so fickle that he just can't say 'no' if some other girl phones him for a date.

"I know I would miss him and be broken-hearted, because when no other girls are around he is very nice to me, and I am not the popular sort of girl, so I have no other boy friends to fall back on. No one seems to want to take me out, although I dress decently, and have a good job and my own car. I am 25 years old. He is 26.

WILL HE CHANGE?

"I did go out with other boys when I was younger, but they all wanted to neck, and I wouldn't, so they ceased to call me up. Then again, the boys who do call me up, I don't care about; and I would hate to get caught 'cheating,' because then he would have an excuse to do it.

"He never speaks of marriage, and when I do, he says he will never marry because he is having too much fun the way things are.

"What can I do to keep him from paying so much attention to other girls? Will he ever change? Or is it just his nature? Will he be the same after he is married? MONA."

What'll you do? Get sense! Cut out this bad habit. For that's what he is, sis—just a miserable habit that you acquired, and which you are too lazy to break.

Never thought of people as habits, did you? Chewing tobacco or drinking booze, biting your fingernails or drawing pictures on the telephone pad—you realize that these things are habits, some bad, some silly.

JUST A BAD HABIT

But people can become bad and silly habits in just the same way. We can acquire the habit of having people around, we can learn to depend on them, grow even accustomed to their abuse of us, just as we learn the use and abuse of any other commodity or custom.

This man is your bad habit. You aren't really devoted to him. You are simply accustomed to him. And you dread making changes. You would rather endure his unkindness and the humiliation he forces on you than to face the loneliness and re-adjustment which would come if he went out of your life.

Stop kidding yourself and don't try to kid me. You'll be a thousand times better off without him. You'll be younger and happier and prouder, and ready to make dozens of new friends.

So get going, youngster. Snap out of this pain-in-the-neck and give yourself a new break.

Ex-Wives' Books Vindicate Husbands, Thinks Fay King

AS SHE PICTURES HER EX-HUSBANDS SUCCESS
I'll WRITE A BOOK!
AFTER READING THE BOOK MY SYMPATHY IS SWITCHED TO THE HUSBAND
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Lately I have read two books written by the ex-wives of famous authors.

When I began the books my entire sympathy was with the wives, who had both lost their husbands to other women.

But when I had finished the books my sympathy had switched entirely to the husbands.

In both is expressed the exalted opinion of the writers' own cleverness and superiority.

Instead of resenting these books, the authors and their publishers must have welcomed them, for though they were intended to vindicate the wives, they have instead vindicated the husbands.

If ex-wives of famous authors will write books, they should choose any subject except an author and his wife, for in this they do themselves great harm.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Do Not Neglect Harelip or Cleft Palate

Harelip is a common deformity seen at birth, due to an incomplete joining of certain structures of the face. The deformity may occur on one side or both sides of the lip. It is never in the center of the lip, but usually just beneath the middle of one nostril.

Dr. Copeland

Harelip may be complicated by a defect in the union of the palate. This cleft or fissure is the condition commonly spoken of as "cleft palate," and is not as common as harelip. It may involve only the soft palate, or it may extend into the hard palate, producing a wide gap in the roof of the mouth.

Many persons are under the impression that harelip or cleft palate is hereditary, but this is not true. The deformity results from some alteration in the normal development of the body before birth. This condition does not run in families, and there is no evidence that it is transmitted from mother to child. It is a purely structural disorder without hereditary influence.

Either harelip or cleft palate may seriously interfere with the nursing and consequently with the growth of the infant. Frequently the child is unable to take sufficient amounts of nourishment, and in these cases it is imperative that an operation to correct the deformity be performed as soon as possible.

For the healthy child that is taking nourishment well and has steadily gained in weight, the operation may be performed at any time after the second week. Whenever possible, it is best to perform the operation after the baby has become well established in feeding and is definitely gaining.

Delay in deciding on an operation may prove very serious, for when nursing is difficult the child rapidly loses weight and becomes undernourished, and is susceptible to many infections.

In cases where the defect interferes with nursing, the mother's milk should be pumped and fed to the child with a spoon or medicine dropper until the operation can be performed. Bear in mind, too, that in many instances of cleft palate postponement makes the operation more difficult, because of the setting and hardening of the soft tissues and bones.

The operation is not serious and should not be feared. In the hands of a competent surgeon, the operation is successful and the results gratifying. Neglect or continued delay is far more serious than the operation.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

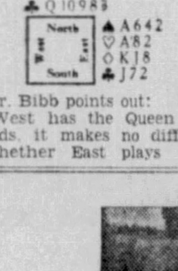
Third Hand Defense

I have frequently discussed in these articles the problem of defense presented to the player who has the Opening lead. I have stressed the importance of a plan of play by the Declarer after the Opening lead is made and the Dummy is on the table. As regards the problem of defense, however, both hands are charged with a responsibility. Sometimes the burden rests largely upon the player with the Opening lead, but at other times it is his partner, known in bridge parlance as "the Junior Hand," who must decide, by his first play, whether or not the opposing contract is to be defeated or made.

Such a problem is the one presented below, sent me by Mr. John D. Bibb, of Anniston, Ala. South played the contract at three no-trump, there having been no adverse bidding. West's Opening lead was the trey of diamonds, on which Dummy played the Ten. The question is: How should East plan the defense of the hand, and why?

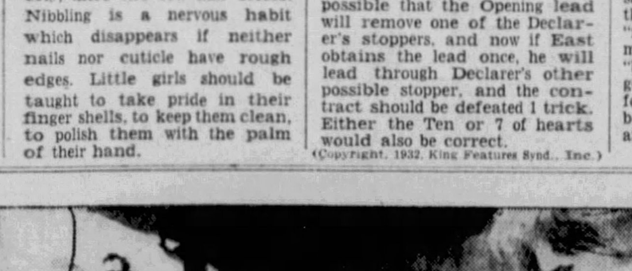
These are the North and East hands:

Neither side is vulnerable.



As Mr. Bibb points out:

"If West has the Queen of diamonds, it makes no difference whether East plays the Knave or the King. East can read West's lead of the 3 as showing not more than five cards in the suit. Therefore, South holds at least three. If South holds three to the Queen, the play of the King would allow the Declarer to win the second round with the Ace and the third round with the Queen, and give him time to establish sufficient tricks to make his contract. The play of the Knave, however, would drive out the Queen on the first round; East would play his diamond King on the second round, thus leaving the 8 to be overtaken by West's probable 9 of diamonds for 3 tricks in the suit, which, with East's two Aces, would defeat the contract. South cannot refuse to win the Knave of diamonds on the first round, because, if he did refuse, East could lead the 8 to the Ace, making 2 tricks in the suit, which, with his two Aces, and any possible trick to be picked up in the West hand, would set South. Assuming, therefore, that South wins the first trick with the Queen, then, as soon as East and West are in, the diamond will be led again, the King being played on the Ace, and eventually 3 diamond tricks will be made, which, with East's two Aces, will set the contract. The full deal is as follows:



"As will be observed, the play of the Knave of diamonds on the Ten at the first trick is the only play which offers a chance to defeat the contract."

It will thus be seen that the problem of defense—is not always—in fact, probably not more than one-half the time—a question of the Opening lead. It is a responsibility which is divided, and the burden of making the correct decision rests sometimes upon one hand and sometimes on the other. In the hand discussed above, it is obvious that the burden rests clearly on East.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Double	Pass	1 ♡
2 ♣	2 ♡	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
3 N T	Pass	Pass	Pass

What should West lead, holding:

♠ K 9 8 6 ♡ A Q 10 7 ◇ A 9 8 ♣ 4 2

Answer: Heart Queen. Although, as a general principle, it is best to avoid leading from tenaces of this sort when you have forced partner to bid that suit, this hand does not seem to offer any better lead. It is possible that the Opening lead will remove one of the Declarer's stoppers, and now if East obtains the lead once, he will lead through Declarer's other possible stopper, and the contract should be defeated 1 trick. Either the Ten or 7 of hearts would also be correct.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Necklace lines encircling the throat can be made less noticeable by placing the clasped hands at the back of the head and lifting the chin high with strong muscular effort. Let the head rock back and forth in the hands. Also not a bad exercise if one is seized with a desire to annihilate fiddle strings or double chin.

Because finger nails receive attention, are manicured properly, there are few nail biters. Nibbling is a nervous habit which disappears if neither nails nor cuticle have rough edges. Little girls should be taught to take pride in their finger shells, to keep them clean, to polish them with the palm of their hand.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Plans

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please let me know what is proper in reference to the number of attendants in a bridal party for a young widow (in her late twenties) who expects to be married the latter part of this summer at mass and a reception to follow at a hotel?

She is thinking seriously of having a matron of honor and a bridesmaid (her two sisters), but thinks according to Hoyle it isn't just the thing to do. She will be married in white, wearing a hat, and the attendant or attendants in some pastel shade.

2. Do you think it advisable to send out invitations for the church, as the reception will be for the families only and a few very intimate friends. She has in mind sending a note to those she really would like to attend the church. D.

1. Usually a bride, at her second marriage, has no attendant or one attendant, but I do think that, in this case, it would be charming for this bride to have her two sisters as attendants. I suggest that they be of the same kind of attendant, that is, that they are not designated as "matron of honor" and "bridesmaid," but that they are called "bridesmaids," and walk together in the processional, before the bride. Then they could be dressed alike, as bridesmaids are.

The plan that is not "according to Hoyle" is, however, the plan of this bride-for-a-second-time to wear white. It would be more appropriate if she wears a pastel shade, too, harmonizing with the shade planned for her attendants.

2. Since the wedding is to be so simple and for so few guests, it would be proper for her to send written invitations.

Words of Thanks.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am to be married very soon, and in writing the announcement for the paper is it correct to write my husband-to-be's name as Mr. John Arnold, B. A., or is it considered bad form to put in a degree in anything but business?

2. Will you kindly advise me how to reply, in a few well-chosen words, to the customary presentation made from the staff in the department where I work? READER.

1. It is not correct to use the bachelor of arts title in making this announcement.

2. Something like this would be appropriate: "You are very kind and very friendly to make such a generous plan for our happiness, and I thank you with all my heart. The silver bowl is one of the most beautiful ones I have ever seen, and I assure you that it will always be a treasured possession. It will have an honor place in our home, and it will always mean my deep devotion to you good friends. Thank you a million times for your wonderful friendship."

WIN MAY SERVE TO RELAX PIRATES

THE FACT THAT the Pirates turned right around and lost the second game in Boston yesterday, after Heinie Meine had snapped their long losing streak of 10 straight by winning the first half of the double bill that wound up the disastrous eastern trip, is no cause for worry. It doesn't mean that the Bucs have fallen right back into the rut again. It was just a close, hard-fought ball game such as any club might lose at any time, even when going at its best. It does not betoken a resumption of the Rover slump and in view of the earlier victory the defeat is relatively unimportant.

Heinie Meine

The big item is that the Pirates broke their losing streak, and the helpful effects of that happening cannot be too highly estimated. It ended a period of strain, worry and discouragement, and ought to enable the players to relax by giving them the feeling that they are again able to win. Backed by the right measure of courage and a settling down by Shortstop Vaughan, his relaxing, bringing back free and natural playing to relieve the tied-up condition that results from trying too hard, should go far toward putting the Gibsons back on the winning road.

THOUGH HE CAME as a friendly enemy and the guiding hand of the outfit that shapes up as the chief obstacle between the Pirates and the pennant, Charley Grimm was assured a warm greeting from Pittsburgh fandom today in his first local appearance as manager of the Cubs.

One of the most popular players ever to wear Buccaneer garb, Grimm finds all the fans hereabouts pulling hard for him to make good except in so far as to interfere with Pirate success. And judging from the improved showing of the Chicago club since Grimm took charge, the Bruin owners will have no cause to regret their choice.

GRIMM, THE FOURTH former Pittsburgh player among the present eight National League managers, gives promise of delivering in the same successful way as the three others—George Gibson, of the Bucs; Bill McKechnie, of the Braves, and Max Carey, of the Dodgers.

With Connie Mack as a fifth former Pirate among the 16 major league pilots, Pittsburgh has clearly outstripped all other big league cities as a school for the development of successful managers.

THE ACTION OF Walter Johnson in sending up Dave Harris to do a pinch-hitting job that spoiled a no-hit game for Tiger Tom Bridges, with two out in the ninth inning and the score standing 13 to 0 against the Senators, continues to be a popular topic of discussion around the American League. Usually, only young players exert themselves to make a hit when a pitcher is so close to the hall of fame. The average old-timer will contrive to strike out. An exception, like Johnson, was Ed Walsh, who, while managing an Eastern League club some years ago, was razzed all over the circuit for putting himself in to bat in the last inning for one of his players and cracking out a safety that ruined a hitless game for the opposing flinger.

Roger Peckinpaugh

MANAGER ROGER PECKINPAUGH, of the Cleveland club, smiled when somebody asked him what he would do in a case like that if he were the batter. "I'll tell you a little story," Peck said, after letting his thoughts drift back to a September day in 1919.

"The Yankees were playing a double-header with the Indians one afternoon a long time ago, and a young fellow named Peckinpaugh was at shortstop for the Yanks. Ray Caldwell pitched the first game for the Indians and he held the Yanks hitless and runless up to the time when this Peckinpaugh came to bat with two out in the ninth. The score stood 3 to 0."

"WELL, WHAT DID Peckinpaugh do?" was the impatient query. Peck smiled again. "He swung DOWN purposely on three pitched balls—and he struck out," replied the Indian boss. "But even swinging down he was afraid that ne might hit one safe by accident.

"However, I'm not saying, mind, that Harris did anything but play the game right when he got that hit off Bridges. At that it may help Bridges in the long run. Looking back on no-hit games hasn't been of much benefit to a few pitchers that I could name."

ACCORDING TO HIS manager, Charley Foster, Jimmy McLarnin probably will return to the Pacific Coast and fight himself into condition for an attempt to regain the position he lost through his recent defeat at the hands of Lou Brouillard. But some of the close observers in Eastern fight circles have their doubts. They think McLarnin is near the end of the trail. Jimmy lacked much of his old stuff against Brouillard. He is rich, hasn't cared much about fighting for the last two years, and has allowed himself to drift so far from his old form that, lacking the urge of a need for money, it is doubtful if he could get back at the peak again.

PRELIMINARY TO THE departure of the Pitt football squad for the Windber training camp on September 7, Capt. Paul Reider and Paul Cuba, tackle candidate, are getting a start toward condition by crowding in as much golf as possible on district courses.

In their latest round they were the guests of George McBride, professional at the Pittsburgh Country Club. Reider caused the caddies and other onlookers to stare by starting off with a birdie three for the first hole. "Maybe they thought I was Bobby Jones," said the Panther captain, "but they must have changed their minds immediately, when I took a nine for the second hole."

THE BRILLIANT SUCCESS of Bill Carr, of Penn, in the Olympic Games draws attention to the fact that no preparatory school in the country has a more remarkable record for producing Olympic champions than Mercersburg Academy. Carr was the fifteenth successful competitor turned out by that institution.

Among Mercersburg's earlier Olympic heroes were W. S. Drumheller, in the 800 meters in 1900; Ted Meredith, who, while still a student in the prep school, broke the world record for 800 meters in 1912; Allen Woodring in the 200 meters in 1920; H. G. Goelitz, in the decathlon; Big Bill Cox, in the 3,000 meters, and Marvin Rick, in the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 1924. In 1928, Barney Berlanger, of Mercersburg and Penn, was third in the decathlon tryout, but did not make the team.

Bill Carr

AT MERCERSBURG FROM 1927 to 1929, Carr starred in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles and broad jump. In the Princeton meet in 1928 he broke the Princeton and Mercersburg broad jump record with a leap of 23 feet, 4 inches. As captain of the Mercersburg team in 1929 he won the broad jump and 100-yard dash at both the Penn and Princeton meets, and, with his teammates, also won the quarter-mile relay in the Penn Relays. Jimmy Curran, Mercersburg track coach for 27 years, had laid the groundwork for another world champion. Carr's record, incidentally, is an exact duplicate of that of Ray Barbuti, o Syracuse, the only American to win a flat race in 1928. Each won the intercollegiate 440-yard championship, the 400-meter final tryout and the Olympic title, and then anchored the winning team in the 1,600-meter relay team.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Italy's powerful and high-spirited eight-oared crew today loomed as the boatload for the United States to beat in the five-star feature of the Olympic regatta, following the fashion in which the blue-shirted, black-haired Latins shared the honors of the trials with the University of California's unbeaten aggregation.

The big cheers yesterday were quite properly reserved for California's own crew, the second the university has sent into the world championship regatta. It measured fully up to high expectations in winning the second and last heat of the trials with apparently plenty in reserve all the way.

ITALIANS POWERFUL

Italy sprang the big surprise of the day by beating the Cambridge University crew, representing Great Britain, by nearly two lengths. Canada was second to the United States' entry.

Italy not only upset a British crew that was one of the big favorites in the advance dope but turned in faster time for the 2,000-meter straightaway than the Americans. The blue-shirts were clocked in 6:28 1-5 and California in 6:29 flat for the distance, approximately one mile and a quarter.

The United States and Italy thus qualified automatically for the finals of the eight-oared competition, to be held Saturday, while the six defeated boatloads were re-drawn in two more heats for this afternoon, the winner of each to get a place in the decisive battle.

Italy's oarsmen made a sensational showing in the first two days of trials, winning three of the 12 preliminaries. Great Britain also gained three victories, while the United States and Po-

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE MENTAL MARVEL—In 1913, M. C. Berg, of New York, discovered the boy wonder, Zerah II, in a Leeds (England) slum district. Although Zerah never had any schooling, he had a supernatural mind for mathematics and was able to solve any difficult problem in a few seconds. The boy was exhibited throughout Great Britain and the United States as a featured vaudeville attraction, and his prowess with figures was tested thousands of times without failure. Physicians who examined the boy could not account for this power, outside of the fact that the boy's brain was abnormal. In the early part of 1916, when Zerah II was only 19 years old, he commenced to lose his peculiar power and within a year was absolutely helpless insofar as mathematics were concerned.

CHARGES CUBS GAMBLED AIRED

Charges that the Chicago Cubs were ruined by heavy gambling on horse races during the regime of Rogers Hornsby as manager were being investigated here today by K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, as the Pirates and Cubs prepared for their single game stand with first place at stake at Forbes Field this afternoon.

SILENT ON PROBE

Commissioner Landis, who arrived here this morning, was quartered at the Schenley Hotel. He refused to make a statement.

Asked point-blank if he was here to investigate reports emanating from Chicago and naming Pitcher Guy Bush as one of the players involved, he said:

"I always am investigating something. I have no statement to make at this time. I may speak later in the day."

Hornsby was deposed as manager of the Cubs following a series with the Dodgers in Brooklyn last week, and Lefty Grimm, former Pirate first baseman, was named to succeed him.

Since Grimm took hold, the club has been functioning in winning style and entered today's game with the Pirates only one-half game behind the local club, which is leading the pennant chase.

GRIMM UPHOLDS BUSH

Manager Grimm said:

"I was talking to Judge Landis this morning. He asked me how the club was going, how I liked my new job and other questions of a similar nature. He did not bring up the subject of gambling at any time. You can quote me as saying that Pitcher Bush is not guilty of gambling on the horse races to the detriment of the club. Bush's ticket has been bought for St. Louis, and he will accompany the club there tonight to pitch a game in the series. If there were anything to this sensation he would be ordered back to Chicago."

Pitcher Bush said:

"I saw Judge Landis this morning. He asked me how I felt and how I liked my new manager and patted me on the back. He did not mention anything about gambling or investigating any charges. I expect to pitch the opening game of our series in St. Louis tomorrow."

SCORES GAMBLING

An Associated Press story from Chicago says the Chicago Daily News quotes Landis as having said before leaving Chicago for Pittsburgh last night:

"Gambling isn't like drunkenness. If it's a drunkard you have to deal with you can give him a shower and an aspirin and send him out on the field and he will play ball for you or at least try.

"But when you have a player out there on the field, wondering, during a crucial moment of the ball game, whether Raggedy Pants or some other nag is going to run first or second, the situation becomes acute.

"It is a thing that I and the executives of every ball club in both circuits want to stamp out and we'll stamp it out even if it means the wrecking of valuable ball clubs.

RECALLS 1919 SCANDAL

"The respective owners would rather see their ball clubs blown to atoms than that such a thing should creep into their teams.

"One scandal such as we had in 1919 is enough."

President William L. Veeck, of the Cubs, who fired Hornsby last week for alleged refusal to take orders and quite "master-minding" his players on the field, said in Chicago that he was in the dark regarding Commissioner Landis' trip to Pittsburgh. He has not been drawn into the case, he said.

Under his contract with Organized baseball, Commissioner Landis has unlimited authority to act as he sees fit in any emergency that may arise.

The linking of gambling on the horse races with Hornsby's regime recalls the fact that Hornsby some years ago was sued by a bookmaker for a large sum of money alleged to be owed in bets.

Even if it were proved that any members of the Chicago club were guilty of betting on horse races, they would not be expelled from baseball on that account.

Baseball legislation of recent years provides penalties for players who bet on baseball games, but it is a fact that some of the big men of the sport have been and still are active in racing.

The president of the National League, however, the rules say:

". . . Shall have power, upon proper proof, to suspend for a definite period and to impose a fine of not exceeding $200 upon any league manager or player guilty, in public, of gross misbehavior, including intoxication, fighting, quarreling, indecency or other scandalous conduct, whether on or off the playing field . . ."

U. S., ITALIAN BOXERS WIN

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Remaining combatants in the international boxing campaign to determine Olympic champions, turned into the third day of competition today with rousing battles forecast.

Ten bouts this afternoon paired off eight rivals each in the fly-weight and welterweight classes and four in the lightweight group. American standard-bearers were called into action in three engagements. Lou Salica, of Brooklyn, fleet 112-pounder, drew Wener Spannagel, of Germany. Nat Bor, Fall River (Mass.) lightweight favorite to capture a crown for the United States in this class, was paired off with Thure Athlovist, rangy lad from Sweden. Clever Eddie Flynn, of New Orleans, had Robert Barton, of South Africa, as his welterweight opponent.

Fights yesterday and last night saw American entries successful in three of four contests. John Miler, of Detroit, light heavyweight, lost a decision to James J. Murphy, battling policeman from Dublin, Ireland, but Johnny Hines, San Pedro youth, defeated Muguel Araico, of Mexico, in the featherweight class; Joe Lang, of San Francisco, advanced in the bantamweight division as a result of a default, and Bor outpointed Hyman Mizler, British 135-pounder.

The net result of 36 actual fights and one default up to today put the United States and Italy in a neck-and-neck race. Each had one losing fighter when last night's program concluded. Six of the eight-man Argentine team have passed out of the picture.

Tonight's bouts will mark the debut of the American middleweight hope, Carmen Barth. The hard punching Cleveland youngster will meet Manuel Cruz, of Mexico, also making his first appearance in the tournament.

Armstrong County Fair Opens Today

FORD CITY, Pa., Aug. 11.—The annual three-day Armstrong County Fair got under way here today with a varied program of athletic events on the inaugural card. The fair will continue through tomorrow and Saturday.

For the first time in the history of the fair no admission is to be charged.

Harness races will be staged every afternoon of the fair. Walter H. Bowser is in charge of the meet.

JACK MISSES K.O.

SEATTLE, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey, former king of the heavyweights, bounced Chet Shandel, giant San Franciscan, to the floor five times in a four-round exhibition bout here last night, but failed to put him down for the full 10 count. Dempsey weighed 202 pounds and Shandel 213½.

BAER, SCHAAF TO BOX

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, California heavyweight, announced here today that Baer and Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, will meet in a 10-round fight in Chicago, August 31.

YANKS NEAR FINAL

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Two United States players—Will Gunn, of Wallingford, Pa., and Francis Ryan, of Detroit—remained in running for Sandy Somerville's Canadian amateur golf crown as the quarter-finals started today.

PIRATES SPLIT WITH TRIBE

The Pittsburgh Pirates broke their 10-game losing streak at Boston yesterday when they split even in a doubleheader with the Boston Braves, the Bucs winning the first game, 5-2, while the Tribe captured the second, 3-2.

Heinie Meine held the Braves well in check to win the decision in the opener, while Larry French had to taste defeat in the second despite the fact he allowed only four hits.

The Freebooters almost treated themselves in a double victory in the finale with the Braves. They needed only one run to deadlock in the ninth as the bases were filled with Buccos when Walter Maranville made a leaping catch of Vaughan's liner. The fielding feat resulted in a double play.

Southpaw Tom Zachary was the victim of the Pittsburgh offensive in the first game. The Pirates won the contest in the sixth when they rushed three tallies over to break a 1-1 deadlock.

Eddie Brandt and French fought it out in the second game. Unfortunately for French, two of the four hits he yielded were homers by Schulmerich and Berger. A wide throw by Vaughan in the fifth round helped the Braves to a run that stood out as the winning marker at the finish.

The Pirates and Cubs battled for first place at Forbes Field this afternoon, the Bruins stopping off here for a single contest. Steve Swetonic was expected to oppose Lonnie Warneke on the mound.

BRAVES BUY STAR

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—William H. Klepper, president of the Seattle Coast League baseball club, has announced the sale of Dutch Holland, 25, hard hitting left fielder, to the Boston Braves for an unspecified amount of cash and two players.

HILL, LEHTINEN TO MEET AGAIN IN 5,000 METERS RACE

AMERICAN ACE TO RACE FINN AT CHICAGO

By LAWSON ROBERTSON,
Head Coach American Track and Field Team.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 11.—L. Lehtinen, of Finland, who won the 5,000-meter race in the Olympics, has agreed to meet Ralph Hill, of Klamath Falls, Ore., August 18 in another 5,000 meters match, under the flood lights of Soldiers Field in Chicago.

A third entry in this race of races will be Janusz Kusocinski, of Poland, who won the 10,000 meters and who is presumed to go just as great over the 5,000 meters route.

Thus we will have another of those things called a "battle of the century."

Lehtinen defeated Hill by a foot in the classic here and many charge that this victory was gained because Lehtinen bore out from the pole in the stretch, blocked off Hill when he was just making his run to get to the front and caused the United States star to lose no less than three yards by being knocked off stride.

Hill earlier agreed to run in the special meet that had been arranged for Chicago. Lehtinen's plans did not embrace such action. However, since Lehtinen has been charged with using unethical tactics to bring about the defeat of Hill, the Finnish star asked to be entered in the race.

LOCALS REACH SEMI-FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN
Staff Correspondent.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 11.—Steel City stars battle Dixie luminaries in men's singles semi-final tilts of the thirteenth annual Western Maryland tennis championships here today. Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A. ace, encounters Barney Welsh, of Duke University, in the upper half, while in the lower, Frank Broida, Pittsburgh Parks permier, takes on the defending champion, Randolph Shields, of Winchester.

O'Loughlin crashed the penultimate frame yesterday by virtue of 6-1, 6-4 victory over Eddie Alcorn, 1932 Pitt net leader.

Shields advanced at expense of Billy O'Loughlin, and Welsh eased ahead by default of John Brown, of Mt. Lebanon.

Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A. racquetress, carried the Winged Head into the feminine semi-finals through withdrawal of Margaret Graham, of Washington, and defeat of Evelyn Claybrook, of Cumberland, 6-2, 6-0.

Pittsburghers scored in the men's dual milling. Bob Lampus and Bud Leyda, Shannopin pair, grabbed default from the Lynchburgers, Pollard and Johnson, and went on to overwhelm Jennings Randolph, Davis-Elkins sports director, and Jim G. Allen, 6-1, 6-2. Andy Smeaton and Hammer registered over the home outfit of Swan Weber and Gibbs, 6-1, 6-0, as the Alcorn-Broida combine moved on by default. Moore and Byrer were eliminated, 6-0, 6-1, by the top seeded duo, Shields and Welsh.

Daddy's Back Home

MR. AND MRS. PAUL WANER AND PAUL, JR.

What if the Pirates did lose 11 out of their last 12 games in the East? Paul Waner still is the greatest baseball player in the world. If you don't believe it, ask Paul, Jr., shown at the East Liberty Station this morning with his mother to welcome daddy back home. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph exclusive picture.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The feats of Eddie Tolan and Ralph Metcalfe in the dash events of the Olympic Games recall to mind the stepping of the first great Negro sprinter, Howard Drew, of the University of Southern California, who ran with a beautiful stride and little effort . . . He turned in a mark of 9 3-5 seconds for the 100 yard dash 20 years ago . . . Get out your pencil and paper and figure this one: . . . Eddie Tolan runs 100 meters in 10.3 seconds and Stella Walsh covers the same distance in 11.9 seconds . . . How far would Stella finish behind Tolan if they both ran in the same race at their fastest time?

The biggest salary Dan Brouthers, the Babe Ruth of his day, who died recently, ever received is said to have been $3,000 a season . . . He batted better than .300 for 14 consecutive seasons and for 15 out of his 17 seasons in the major leagues . . . He led the National League in batting four times.

The real name of Lou Brouillard, the French-Canadian southpaw welterweight, who recently defeated Jimmy McLarnin in New York, is not Louis, but Lucien . . . He started out as an orthodox boxer, but switched over and became a southpaw to protect a cracked rib as an amateur . . . He won the welterweight title from Young Jack Thompson eight months after turning professional, and lost it to Jackie Fields, Thompson's stablemate, in carrying out an agreement to box Fields in the event he defeated Thompson.

A New York critic ranks Earl Grace, of the Pirates, and Rolly Hemsley, of the Cubs, who were traded for each other, as the two leading catchers of the National League, with Bill Dickey, of the Yankees, now ahead of Mickey Cochrane, of the Athletics, the former ace of the American League . . . From now on, after all of that record-breaking in the Olympic Games, no one ever will be justified in questioning fast times made in events in the Golden State.

Larry Doyle, old second baseman of the New York Giants, still is active as a player for a team in an industrial league in Brooklyn . . . One of the finest young heavyweights, Stanley Poreda, of Jersey City is matched to box Primo Carnera in Newark, N. J., next Tuesday night . . . Poreda already has beaten Ernie Schaaf, Johnny Risko, Babe Hunt, Andy Mitchell, Marty Gallagher, Al Friedman, Ted Sandwina and Frankie Cawley by the decision route and knocked out Bud Gorman, Walter Cobb, George Hoffman, Emmett Rocco, Ralph Ficucello, Pat McCarthy and Hans Schoenrath . . . He was chased out of the training camp of Max Schmeling for being too frisky as a sparring partner.

The United States has not won the 1,500 meters run in the Olympic Games since Mel Sheppard annexed the event in London in 1908 . . . Incidentally, Thomas E. Messenger, of Wilkinsburg, former amateur and professional track athlete, calls attention to one for Ripley in the accounts of the Olympic marathon, won by Zabala, of the Argentine, with Ferris, the Englishman, second . . . Reports of the grind state that Zabala won by 200 yards in the record time of 2 hours, 31 minutes, 36 seconds, with Ferris finishing in 2:31:55 and also beating the old record . . . At this rate, Ferris must have run the last 200 yards in 19 seconds, after running more than 26 miles, an unbelievable and probably impossible feat.—HARRY KECK.

Nick Altrock
Baseball's Humorist

Says:

EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The funny part about Art Shires being put on the shelf is that he got there on account of a knee injury instead of talking too much. When anything happens to old What-a-Man you generally attribute it to his jawbone.

Nick Altrock

This is the third or fourth time Art has been eased out of the majors. If it happens a couple more times, Shires will begin to suspect he really isn't a big leaguer.

It's sure been a funny season with McGraw, Hornsby and Shires hitting the chutes. It doesn't happen very often that one of the greatest managers, one of the greatest hitters and absolutely the best talker in baseball all depart within a couple of weeks.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

There'll be no boxing show at Greenlee FiField tonight.

Arthur DeKuh, Italian heavyweight, of New York, who was to meet Seal Harris, Chicago Negro, in the 10-round main bout, failed to arrive today, after his manager called on the telephone last night and demanded that transportation be rushed him. He was told to pay his own transportation and it would be refunded upon his arrival here.

No arrival, no fight.

Matchmaker Jules Beck was trying this afternoon to re-establish communication with Charley oRse, DeKuh's manager. He's willing to send the transportation now if DeKuh will promise to come here in time to let the show go on tomorrow night.

Between Rounds

Charley Baxter is ready to fight any sort of a fight his opponent elects when he meets Battling Gizzy in their elimination battle for local lightweight prestige at Hickey Park next Monday night. He wants to fight a clean fight, but will discard athletics and go the limit if Gizzy wants to resort to the same wrestling and throwing tactics that marked his bout with Chico Cisneros in the same ring last Monday night to the disgust of the patrons and the alienation of many of his most stalwart supporters.

Speaking for Baxter today, Charley Jones, his manager, denied a report that he would go before the boxing commission and demand that Gizzy be made to fight a clean fight, with no hitting after the bell and no wrestling holds and throws.

"Baxter will fight Gizzy any way Gizzy wants to fight," Jones said. "He'd rather fight a fair, clean fight, but he can take care of himself in a roughhouse, and, if it develops into an alley fight, Gizzy will have no one but himself to blame and will have to suffer the consequences. Fighting with all rules suspended, as Gizzy generally is prepared to fight, I think Baxter will make him jump over the ropes. There'll be no strings on Baxter unless they put the hobbles on Gizzy—and the haven't done it so far. No matter how much he has transgressed the rules.

Isadoro Gastanaga, the new Firpo, who knocked out Charley Retzlaff in one round a few nights ago, is going to be built up for the big stuff. The New York promoters are on the lookout for opponents for him, and, with the New York managers steering clear of Izzy, out-of-town opposition is being sought. Sunny Bostark, manager of George Paska, of Homestead, is in receipt of an offer for Paska to box the big Spaniard at the Queensboro Stadium, August 23, and has taken it under consideration.

Three of the bouts on the amateur card at the St. Peter's A. A. arena, on the North Side, next Tuesday night, have been arranged as follows: Art McGivern vs. Young Florida, Al Hardge vs. Johnny Fleishman and Johnny Larrick vs. Frankie Wingo.

Jimmy Gilligan is hankering for a return bout with Andy Kosel, who recently defeated him at Hickey Park. The promoters are sleeping on this Kosel fellow, who showed more class than any other local preliminary boxer in a long time his last time out and hasn't been heard from since. Maybe he wants more than $20 for a preliminary bout.

Al Sunseri, former local amateur star, has turned professional under the management of Charley Jones, handler of Charley Baxter, and will make his first start for the coin against Mickey Cregan, of Homestead, on the Baxter-Battling Gizzy card at Hickey Park next Monday night.

Al Farone and Steve Senich, local featherweights, are looking for action. The former is managed by Gus Camp and the latter by Dan Clark.

An attempt will be made to revive boxing interest in Charleroi with the staging of a card of amateur bouts at the baseball park tonight. Charleroi once was a leading fistic center in Western Pennsylvania, producing Young Carmen, Eddie Pinchot, Joe La Rue, Willie Davies, Cuddy DeMarco, the three Fay brothers, Harry, Ray and Al; Tug Phillips, Young Saylor and Young Rudy, among others, but has been off the beaten fistic patch in recent years.

TYPO TOURNEY OPENS TODAY

ST. PAUL, Aug. 11. — The twenty-first annual baseball and golf tournaments of the International Typographical Union were scheduled to get under way here today with contestants from 13 cities of the United States and Canada in the competition. The tournaments wih continue until next Wednesday.

The Garry Herrmann Trophy will go to the winner of the baseball championship. Pittsburgh has entered a strong team in the tournament and is expected to make a bid for the title. Washington is the defending champion.

Pittsburgh will meet Baltimore in its first test today, with St. Louis taking on the Twin Cities; New York engaging Cleveland; Cincinnati playing Detroit, and Indianapolis meeting Washington. Chicago drew a bye.

CRABBE SCORES SWIM UPSET VICTORY

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Clarence (Buster) Crabbe, who learned his swimming at the Hawaiian Islands, came from behind yesterday to stage a surprise victory for Uncle Sam in the 400-meter free-style finals of the tenth Olympic Games before 12,000 persons.

In bringing to the United States its first racing championship of the men's division, Crabbe set a new Olympic record of 4 minutes 48.4 second and also bettered Arne Borg's world record, posted in Sweden at 4:50.3 in 1925.

It was a riotous finish which gave Crabbe the title. Jean Taris, blond, curly-haired Frenchman, had set a terrific pace from the start, with his stiff-arm stroke, jumping into a lead of two meters on the first lap and maintaining it until the 300-meter mark had been passed.

Crabbe's triumph enabled the United States to retain its team lead with a total of 42 points, against 37 for the Nipponese, who finished third, fourth and fifth, respectively.

The United States women's springboard divers opened the fifth day of the aquatic carnival nicely for Uncle Sam by sweeping the first three places, just as the Yankee men divers had done.

Miss Georgia Coleman, of Los Angeles, who placed second in 1928, won the event with a total of 87.52 points. Her 14-year-old teammate, Katherine Rawls, of Miami Beach, Fla., was second with 82.56 and Jane Fauntz, of Chicago, third, scoring 82.12.

HIGHLAND WINS GOLF TROPHY

By TOM BIRKS

The Highland Country Club's women's golf team obtained possession of the Thomas Trophy today when it defeated the Shannopin Country Club team in their second half of their match over the Highland course. Highland won by a score of 54-52 for the 36 holes of play.

Betty Cruickshank was awarded a trophy for turning in the low net among the Highland golfers. She had 83-83—166, while Mrs. Carl Van der Voort was given a trophy for leading the Shannopin delegation with 82-81—163. The summary:

Barbara Warmcastle, young Pittsburgh Field Club star, continued the brilliant form she has displayed all season by winning the club championship yesterday afternoon, defeating Mary Kuhn in the final round, 2 and 1.

In the P. G. A. one-day tournament at Alcoma yesterday, Fred Weppner, of Stanton Heights, toured the course in 71 to lead a field of crack amateurs. His score was one stroke better than that turned in by Dr. W. H. L. McDiarmid, Alcoma champion.

Bill Mercer, Kiski captain; Dr. T. B. McCullough, of Oakmont; Bruce Miller, of St. Clair; Maurice LeBosquet and Dr. J. H. Euwer, both of Highland, tied for third place with 77s.

R. A. Coleman, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, had low net for the day with 83-19—64.

Landis Here for Probe

COMMISSIONER K. M. LANDIS MANAGER CHARLEY GRIMM

Baseball's highest court, Commissioner Landis, here today to investigate charges that gambling on the horse races wrecked the Chicago Cubs during the regime of Manager Rogers Hornsby, recently deposed, refuses to make a statement. Exclusive Sun-Telegraph picture shows him with Lefty Grimm, former Pirate first baseman, Hornsby's successor.

BUCS NOT DOWN -BENSWANGER

The Pirates still are optimistic, despite their record of 11 defeats in their last 12 games in the East and hope to make a fighting finish in the games that lie before them. This was the statement of William E. Benswanger, president of the club, who spoke as a surprise feature of the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE last night.

Benswanger had just returned from the East ahead of the team, which battles the second-place Chicago Cubs at Forbes Field this afternoon, and told the fans what had occurred to knock the team off its stride after its fine start against the Giants on the trip. He said:

"We never have made any pennant claims, and we are not making any now. However, we are going to keep on trying, and we want your support."

Charles J. Doyle, baseball expert of the Sun-Telegraph, analyzed the pennant situation and the reasons for the cracking of the Pirates, pointing out that their chances of making a recovery are bright.

C. W. Ward, president of the Pittsburgh Casting Club, outlined the program for the national fly-casting tournament to be held here week after next. Others on the program included Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph; Julius Levin, of the sports staff, and Miss Marian Salmon, pianist, and Herb McGee, announcer, of WCAE.

SARAZEN FAILS TO QUALIFY FOR P. G. A.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Because he chose to be "one of the boys," Gene Sarazen's chances of scoring a grand slam in golf are very slim.

After winning the British and United States Open titles, Sarazen was offered the opportunity of competing in the Professional Golf Association's tournament at St. Paul, August 30-September 3, without playing in the qualifying rounds. He refused, saying he wanted to take his chance just like the other boys.

Yesterday 14 Metropolitan pros qualified and Sarazen was not one of the group. He finished in a seven-way tie for the last three places, but lost out on the first extra hole when a par four was not good enough to beat a trio of birdie 3's.

Sarazen, Leo Diegel, former P. G. A. champion, and two others played two more holes with the hopes that one of the qualifiers will withdraw, leaving another position open. Sarazen won. There is a chance that Charles Lacey, assistant pro to Sarazen at Lakeville, will withdraw, leaving the place open for him.

U. S., ITALIAN CREWS WIN

land scored two each, Canada and Australia one each.

U. S. PAIR WIN

The Americans' best chance of carrying off championship honors, outside of the eight-oared class, appeared to rest on the experienced double sculling combination, Garrett Gillmore and Ken Myers, of Philadelphia. They won from Germany's pair yesterday by nearly three lengths in 7:14 3-5, with much the best performance in this class.

The American single sculling champion, Bill Miller, of the Penn A. C., Philadelphia, appeared certain to clinch a place in the final, although he was beaten decisively by Bobby Pearce, Australian holder of the title, in their first test, Tuesday. Miller, in today's retrials to select two more finalists, opposed Guillermo Douglas, of Uruguay, and Joe Wright, Jr., of Canada.

Four championships will be decided tomorrow, with the following already qualified for the finals:

Fours with coxswain—Italy and Poland. Pairs with coxswain—United States, Poland, France and Brazil (only four entries; no trials held).

Single sculls—Pearce, Australia; Southwood, Great Britain.

SELLING HALTS STOCK PRICE UPTURN

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The stock market turned downward during the afternoon.

Successive buying waves, first in the rails, then in the farm implements, failed to keep the bull movement rolling, in face of the growing conviction in trading quarters that the advance had been going too fast, and that the list was overripe for a technical reaction. Trading was quieter on the decline at first, but selling developed considerable volume as the session went into the fourth hour.

The ability of the market to forge ahead in the previous session, in the face of a somewhat unfavorable electric power production report and adverse dividend news, had been surprising to many conservative traders. Indications that the government wheat crop estimate as of August 1, despite some reduction from July 1, was less favorable than the trade had been expecting, seemed finally to have injected a little caution into the bull camp, inasmuch as the commodity situation has been one of their chief talking points. Silver, however, forged ahead rather brilliantly, with spot bullion quoted 1¾ cents higher at 30 cents an ounce.

Wall Street was intrigued by indications of serious consideration in important quarters of methods of restoring Russo-American trade, but much of the Street was skeptical over the ability of the Soviet to finance any large volume of purchases. This Russian trade discussion has provided a good part of the bull fuel for the move in the farm implements. Merger gossip has been revived by the upswing in the markets, touching today upon Montgomery Ward and Sears, Roebuck. Discussions of a union of these firms were given up about a year ago without agreement, but some quarters now say that talks have been informally resumed.

Bradstreet's weekly wholesale food index showed another good gain, reaching 56.8 per cent of the 1928-30 average, compared with 56.2 per cent a week previously. Bank clearings as reported to Bradstreet's for the week ended August 10, however, showed a somewhat larger than usual drop for that period, despite the lively security markets.

WHEAT, CORN PRICES FALL

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Wheat went downward in price and corn up in active early dealings today. The United States government crop report was chief immediate factor, indicating 1932 domestic wheat production larger than expected, and corn less, opening unchanged to ⅝ off, wheat later declined all around. Corn started at to 1¼ advance, and subsequently reacted.

Emphasizing the bearish aspects of the United States government wheat crop report was the fact that the Canadian official report pointed also to a wheat yield greater than the trade had looked for.

Persistent commission house selling of wheat soon carried prices for that grain down about 2 cents a bushel with corn falling back to below yesterday's finish. Aggressive support for corn and oats was lacking after bulges in corn at the start.

In provisions, lard shorts covered at advances, and were supplied by packers.

BUSINESS PACE SHOWS LITTLE PROGRESS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Hope and manipulation from high places have tended to put a better appearance on things economic in recent weeks, but thus far little discernible progress has been made in the direction of increasing the gross volume of business in the United States.

Mr. Rukeyser

Until the underlying trade statistics reveal a pickup in gross, gains will be purely conjectural and subject to challenge.

Fundament a l improvement must deal with the insufficiency of purchasing power on the part of large social groups—the impoverished farmers and the economically disfranchised in the cities—the great hordes of unemployed. In hogs and livestocks and other agricultural products recent price changes have been for the better, but the farmer, heavily burdened by debts, is not yet out of the woods. There are some who think that governmental regulation to brins farm prices into better harmony with industrial prices will still be necessary, unless an act of providence, such as a crop shortage, should intervene.

JOBS BIG PROBLEM

As for the unemployed in the cities, they still constitute the major challenge. My own belief is that acceleration of planned construction, whether public or private, will be necessary to reverse the tides in the market place for human services. Although Congress was sparing in its public works appropriations, there is in the Garner-Wagner act a provision for the lending of $1,500,000,000 for self-liquidating public and semi-public construction projects. Prompt and courageous enforcement of this provision would help to deal with one of the fundamentals of the depression.

Unquestionably improvement in sentiment, such has occurred, is a necessary prelude to genuine economic recovery, but the better feeling if it is to prove significant, must be translated into a program of effective action. The will to act constructively is growing, and should not be frustrated in a mere attempt to write prosperity on to the stock ticker without making provision to enlarge the purchasing power of the great consuming public. The outstanding need is to enlarge the gross volume of American business. To do so would provide lower unit costs, by taking advantage again of the economics of large scale production. Actual reductions in cost made have to a considerable extent been offset during the period of shrinking volume by rising fixed overhead charges.

AWAIT HOOVER SPEECH

One of the principal railroad financiers told me that a rise of 20 per cent in gross traffic for the carriers would end their troubles, particularly in view of the operating economies now in vogue. He thought that the carriers stood in a better position than some of the basic industries, which will need to double their volume. Moreover, the railroads, unlike the industries, do not have to build up their price structure, for prosperity rates are still in effect.

There is a tendency in Wall street to regard all events as grist for the speculative mill. Accordingly, the Street has been indulging in conjecture concerning the President's acceptance speech tonight. It is assumed that the Chief Executive will deal with the economic issues. It is rather noteworthy that the stock market has risen in recent weeks of executive silence, whereas in the perverse bear cycle it frequently reacted sharply on official utterances intended to be constructive.

Stock Loan Basis Changed to Dollars

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Beginning next Monday the New York Stock Exchange will quote premiums on security loans in round figures instead of fractions. Under the new arrangement the premiums will be established on the basis of dollars per hundred shares which the exchange asserts will involve less clerical calculation than is necessary under the present system. Stocks loaning at premiums are those which are in short supply in the loan crowd and carry a special charge to the borrowers against their short sales.

Commerce Bureau's Wholesale Index Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Wholesale commodity prices showed a slight rise during the week ended August 6 on the basis of calculations from a list selected by the Commerce Department. In the table that follows the index is given for comparable weeks, based on representing 1926 levels as 100. In addition, the price of a ton of composite steel products is given for like periods:

	All commodities	Steel
Week ended Aug. 6	63.3	$29.46
Previous week	63.2	29.36
Same week last year	69.5	31.06

Texas Panhandle Accepts Unit Basis

AUSTIN, Aug. 11.—Following a hearing by the Railroad Commission yesterday on the natural gas situation in the Texas Panhandle, it was decided to place that entire area on a unit basis of production.

By this method, four major companies, which are now obtaining most of their gas supply from their own wells, will be compelled to purchase fuel on a pro rata basis from other owners of wells. It will take about eight months to place the unit system in effect.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The curb market's advance was interrupted by profit-taking today, but reactionary tendencies found activity reduced, whereas trading picked up briskly on frequent buying flurries.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (100 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Forbes

Pigs' Record Eclipsed by Other Things

By B. C. FORBES

THIS COLUMN recently said: "If pigs can advance 60 per cent, maybe other things will." That comment has been widely quoted.

B. C. Forbes

Well, "other things" have advanced 60 per cent—very important things, things that record the value of most other things in America, stocks.

Representative stockshave advanced much more than 60 per cent from their low levels of last month. The rebound actually approximated 80 per cent. Probably never before in the 140 years' history of the New York Stock Exchange has such a performance been witnessed.

SOME READERS wrote ridiculing the view expressed in this column, when everything was sinking lower and still lower, that some day prices would recimb to very much higher heights. The writer is willing to admit that he hardly expected an 80 per cent recovery in stock prices in little more than one month. Doubtless it would have been more effective, more beneficial to trade and industry, if the 80 per cent recovery had been spread over three months instead of 30 days.

All that, current quotations can only be regarded as much nearer normal than were the ludicrous quotations ruling in early July. Had the descent been less, the recovery doubtless would have been less.

BROKERS TELL me they could not induce customers to buy freely when stocks were near bottom, but that there has lately been something approaching a stampede to "get aboard." One broker relates:

"Early in July I sent out a special letter to our customers and to a number of others, urging them, for the first time since the panic, to start buying. The response was most disappointing. But they have been scrambling to buy since prices rose anywhere from 50 to 100 per cent. Make no mistake about it, the public have re-entered the market."

It cannot be said that bonds have matched the record of pigs. Most of them have not yet recovered 60 per cent, but not a few issues, today regarded as speculative, have already moved up 50 per cent; while choicer issues have also enjoyed very substantial recovery. Similarly, commodities haven't shot up 60 per cent, but here, also, quite sharp gains have been registered.

IF PRICE levels should by any chance sink back towards recent minimums, it will be a sad commentary upon Americans and upon their appraisal of this nation's future. As President Whitney, of the New York Stock Exchange told Washington probers, many people seemed anxious "to give away America." America isn't worthless. America isn't bankrupt. America isn't either worn out or down-and-out. There is mighty little the matter with America; there has been a lot the matter with the mental processes of many Americans.

Happily, some semblance of sanity is returning. Let us refrain uncompromisingly from giving way again to panic, hysteria, abject defeatism. Remember our heroic forefathers and how they refused to be licked by adverse circumstances, circumstances more disheartening than any the nation has recently had to face.

"Quit you like men, be strong."

THIS NEWS sent this column from Detroit, is interesting.

The Lawrence Institute of Technology has taken an option on 150,000 square feet of the idle Ford plant at Highland Park, to be used for development of new industries. A large number of small parties are to be induced to occupy this space by furnishing them rent and heat free. Each factory has to hire a certain number of students. These students will work four weeks at a time, then be replaced by others and return to their studies. The manufacturers will pay the students normal wages. The institute will co-operate with and help the factories in every possible way.

Complaint often is made that students graduate without knowledge of ability fitting them to enter the work-a-day world of affairs. This plan should obviate that.

SOME DAY somebody will place a big order for goods. The effect may astonish pessimists.

Steel Foundry Designs New Equipment For Mills

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

PITTSBURGH STEEL Foundry Corporation has started the design and production of several new types of specialized steel mill equipment to compensate for the reduced sales of its older products.

For years the organization has been making and machining steel castings which are used as parts of mill equipment built by other companies. It now plans to go a step further and to produce several types of equipment of novel design entirely in its own plants. Officials state that they do not plan to compete with the builders of heavy mill equipment but they feel that the desire of steel companies to achieve lower costs to meet present conditions opens a particular field for equipment which their plants are able to build.

To provide the technical supervision necessary for expansion in these new fields, the services of several outstanding engineers have been obtained. William L. Ditges has been appointed vice president in charge of engineering and special development work in the rolling mill industry. He was formerly chief engineer and vice president in charge of engineering of the Mackintosh-Hemphill Company. Walter DeFries, formerly chief engineer of the William B. Pollock Company, has been retained in the capacity of sales engineer.

New Sheet Mill Is Developed

ONE OF THE NEW products which is attracting wide attention in the steel industry is a new type of fully automatic sheet mill. The older types of sheet mills require five men for their operation and produce from eight to nine tons of sheets a day. The new automatic mill is designed to produce from 80 to 90 tons a day and requires only one man for its operation. The mill can be built for a relatively small investment. It is expected to make possible reductions in the cost of rolling sheets ranging from $3 to $4 a ton. Such savings are only surpassed in the large continuous wide strip mills which involve an investment of many millions of dollars, which require an exceptionally large production volume for economical operation and which are not sufficiently flexible to meet the needs of any but the largest producers of sheets.

The newly developed equipment consists of a three high mill which automatically takes billets from a heating furnace in pairs, feeds them through the mill, catches, returns the billets through the mill and finally places the two partly finished sheets on top of each other and rerolls them as a "pack" to the desired gage.

Largest Hot Metal Rail Car Planned

THE GROWING practice by which steel companies transfer molten pig iron from blast furnaces directly to open hearth plants has developed the need for cars for transporting the hot metal in sufficient quantities to reduce heat loss to a minimum. The Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Corporation has developed a hot metal ladle car of 125-ton capacity. This car is large enough to eliminate the need for "Mixers," as the containers for storing molten iron are called. The car can be filled at a blast furnace and emptied directly into open hearth furnaces. This eliminates the loss of heat and wastage of metal which takes place in the existing method of pouring the iron from a ladle car into a "mixer" for storage, from there into another ladle, and finally into an open hearth furnace.

Furniture Market Inquiries Expand

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Many furniture buyers have come into the market this week and business is said to have erpanded sharply. Larger inquiries are attributed to fears that prices are to be advanced.

BLONDIE OF THE FOLLIES

From Which M. G. M. Has Made A Motion Picture Starring Marion Davies

By FRANCES MARION

Lurline Shocked When Larry Tells Her That He's Through With Her

CHAPTER XVI.

Blondie walked over to her father again, this time with determination.

"Well, Pa," she said seriously, "I'm really going in the Follies. I have a date at 10 at the theater, and I'm going."

"In the Follies?" Her father said it as though he had heard it for the first time, and was a little dazed.

"Sure . . . what's wrong with that?"

"Nothing—nothing—but come here a moment," and he moved to the other end of the room, Blondie following him.

"Now, Pa, don't start," said Blondie, defensively.

"I'm not going to start—I've finished." There was no force in his statement. He said it quietly, brokenly.

"Not with me, Pa?" Blondie was frightened now.

"No, Blondie, I'll never be finished with you—never," her father said, looking at her sadly. "What I meant was, I'd finished with being an old-time Pa . . . I thought it over carefully, and a parent has no right to try and hold a child back from doing what she wants—unless she wants to do something very wrong—and you couldn't do anything very wrong, could you, Blondie?"

"You know I couldn't," said Blondie, softly. Then quickly on the defensive again: "The Follies is all right then—they pay well!"

"Where will you live?"

"Here for the time being—Lottie said I could."

PA QUESTIONS BLONDIE

"You—you couldn't go in the Follies and still live—home?" her father asked pleadingly.

"No—no, it's such a long way uptown at night—I'll come and see you all the time though . . ."

"We'll send your things down here—or will you come up for them?" he asked hopefully.

"I won't need anything from there." Blondie said quickly. "Lottie said she'd lend me everything. Isn't she a pal?"

"Yes . . . well, then . . . good luck, Blondie." And Pa looked down at his twirling hat.

"Anyone would think I was going away forever. Aren't you glad?" said Blondie, trying to be cheerful.

"Yes—it's fine—it is fine," her father said, almost hysterically. "Blondie, I'm just an old crab—I don't mean to be—it's real fine, really it is." His eyes filled up with tears and he flung his arms around her. Then he sobbed: "Take care of my girl . . . Oh, take care of my baby!" He pulled himself away and put on his little hat. "I'll see you, Blondie—it is fine . . . it's fine!" He almost ran out of the apartment.

For several seconds Blondie stood looking at the door that closed behind her father. Then she slowly walked back to the bedroom.

Lurline was still propped up in bed, eating, when Blondie entered.

GIVEN CLOTHES

"O'Brien will burn up if you're late," Lurline said, knowing that whatever answer Blondie made would determine what had happened at the meeting with her father.

"I'm on my way now." Blondie said, slipping out of the dressing gown.

Lurline pushed her tray aside, and jumped out of bed. Going over to the closet she took a dress from the rack.

"Here's that blue . . . you can wear it . . . and the practice pants . . . here they are. Madelon can pull the initials off . . ."

"You're certainly a pal," said Blondie enthusiastically.

Lurline turned to her and said affectionately: "I like you, Blondie . . . I'm glad to have you for a pal again. One sort of feels at home—you know . . . the only thing is . . . hands off the Larry number."

"I promised you, didn't I?" said Blondie sincerely.

Lurline walked over to the dressing table, as Blondie started to put on her clothes.

"I'm going on a yacht tonight," said Lurline. "Pratt, the old man's yacht. It's a palace . . . a palace on the sea . . ."

"Fine . . . yes, fine," Blondie answered, but there was a hollow ring in her voice.

"If I had another good fur coat I'd lend it to you and take you along . . ."

"The coat you gave me last night is right here. Do you have to have furs on a yacht?"

"On a yacht? Certainly! You need it for deck work," said Lurline wisely.

"Deck work? What's that?"

"Go on a yacht, baby, and you'll see!"

When Lurline referred to Mortimer Pratt's yacht as "a palace on the sea," she was nearer right than she knew. From bow to stern, from engine room to the wireless antenna, the yacht was the final word in seagoing luxury.

Leaning carelessly against the rail near the accommodation ladder Larry and Pratt stood talking.

"I asked Lurline for you," said Pratt, hospitably.

"You needn't have done that," replied Larry, in a noncommittal tone.

"She's a good-looker that girl—not quite my type—but stunning," Pratt looked at Larry questioningly.

"That's a funny situation," said Larry, lowering his voice confidentially. "I don't know how I got into it . . . it's just one of those things . . . you know what I mean?"

"Not quite," said Pratt, recalling what he had seen and heard.

"I never really cared about her," Larry explained, ". . . but we're cads, all of us. We think because we're able to help these kids out with a few luxuries we're emperors by divine right."

"The man pays."

"Yes . . . and so do the girls. I've been trying as tacitly and nicely as I know how to bust this thing up . . . but it's very difficult."

"Give her a good check and tell her . . ."

"I'd hate to hurt her."

"I like blondes," and Pratt said it as though expressing his preference for dogs or horses.

"I'm beginning to want the decent things . . . it must be age . . . someone for whom you can have some respect."

DISCUSS AFFAIR

"Better watch your step . . . you're getting that marriage look. It's like a cold in the head—everyone gets it."

"I'd hate to feel that I'd harmed a girl."

"Harmed her? Why, you've probably given her what they all want most."

"What?"

"Clothes, a car, style, education . . ."

"But nothing for her soul!" Larry said sadly.

"That's a very silly word . . . she probably hasn't one. They usually throw that impediment to fun out the window the first decent apartment they possess."

"Cynic?"

"No—a man of the world!" Pratt bragged.

"Which world?"

"Venus."

As Pratt spoke several searchlights on the yacht started to play across the water toward the shore, cutting huge swaths of light through the darkness.

"Here comes some of the girls," said Pratt, reaching for the binoculars hanging from the strap around his neck. "Lurline's bringing a friend tonight—someone special for me," he added.

"That's nice of her," said Larry disinterestedly.

"Lurline's a nice girl—not quite my type—but very nice," and Pratt was overly patronizing. "Put the searchlights on the tender" he shouted.

HURRIES AWAY

At the order Larry glanced off to where the lights concentrated but the tender was too far away for him to distinguish any of the passengers.

"Ah—a blonde!—Good!" exclaimed Pratt, and he hurried away to give some orders.

Larry watched the approaching tender anxiously. Other guests joined him at the rail as the little boat drew closer. Finally there was a hail from the tender's passengers, plainly visible now, and Larry saw that Blondie was with Lurline in the boat. He walked hastily away from the ladder.

Voices called back and forth. Larry watched the two girls come on board to be fawningly greeted by Pratt.

"Welcome aboard," said Pratt, making a mock bow over his commodore's cap.

"Gee—this is swell!" exclaimed Blondie, looking around in amazement.

"I told you, my dear—a palace on the sea!" chirped Lurline.

"Would you like to come around before you take your furs off?" asked Pratt, taking Blondie's arm.

"Do, dear," urged Lurline. "Where's Larry?"

Quickly catching sight of him standing idly by the rail, Lurline joined him.

"Why didn't you call? I would have come aboard with you . . . you never cease trying to humiliate me."

"What's the idea of bringing that kid here for Pratt?" he demanded.

"Jealous?"

"Perhaps!"

"I thought so—she told me a great deal—you see she happens to be my friend."

"What kind of a friend are you to her . . . to start her on this racket?"

"Racket? . . . Larry, what are you talking about?" she asked, in her best tone of innocent surprise.

LARRY RESPECTS BLONDIE

"Just this—it's a dirty, rotten shame—she's a good kid with nice parents and you are just heading her off the track . . ."

"I suppose you didn't try and head her off the track . . . I suppose you were holding her on the track with two arms . . . just like this weren't you?"

"No . . . I have great respect for her . . . she's decent!"

"And I suppose I'm not?"

"I didn't say you weren't—and you're not going to trap me into a brawl here . . . Now—I'll tell you this—I'm through for keeps! I made arrangements today to settle some money on you . . . the whole thing's been very foolish. It can't get either of us anywhere!"

Lurline was stunned. For a moment she was at a total loss for words, trying to comprehend what tragedy this meant for her. Before she could reply a little group of guests joined them at the rail.

"Hello, Lurline! Hello, Larry, old boy!"

But Larry had gone, leaving Lurline to the smart cracks of the girls.

Synopsis

Blondie McClune and Lottie Callahan, friends since childhood, work in the same store. After work one evening, Lottie says she has a date and asks Blondie to join her. Blondie disapproves. Two men wait for them outside the building. When one becomes too familiar with her, Blondie slaps his face and goes home alone, to the poor section of the city. Later the two girls argue about the date and it ends in a rough and tumble fight. Blondie's dress is torn and she decides to get a new one. Looking for some money she had saved, she discovers that somebody has taken it. She greets her ailing dad when he arrives home and learns that he has lost his job. Lottie leaves home in quest of a career. After a few months, under the name of Lurline Cavendish, she becomes the newest sensation of the Follies. She visits the McClunes, but is anxious to get away from the place she once called her home. Blondie is self-conscious when she meets Larry Belmont, a young broker. Lurline becomes angry with Blondie for accepting a theater invitation from Larry. Blondie, through Larry's influence, is given a part in the Follies. Larry quarrels with Lurline when she objects to Blondie accompaning them on party. Blondie flees from home after her father criticizes Larry. She goes to Lurline, who tells her about Larry.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Katie Saves Madge From Possible Death

Even as those murderous, bound hands rose above my eyes, the heavy metal handcuffs outlining the yellow wrists, I realized what must be the malevolence of these two bound Chinese whom Lee Chfow and Hugh Grantland had brought with them.

The man who just had gathered himself into a catapult and flung me to the floor must have known that he could not escape. But Hugh Grantland's quiet words about deporting them back to their own country had goaded him into this desperate and hopeless chance.

NO FEAR OF DEATH

I had no fear of death, however. It was a more terrible fear—that the hands of one of the three men in the room dear to me, my husband, Lillian's husband, or my old friend, would in another few seconds be stained with blood. All of them were armed, all of them crack shots, all of them could shoot from a coat pocket if necessary, without betraying movement of a muscle. That all were tense, watching, deadly cool, I also knew. I could visualize the next few seconds. They would pretend to temporize, and at the first favorable second one, perhaps all of those hidden revolvers, would blaze death at the man crouching over me. My face would probably be terribly bruised as those dread manacled hands fell upon it, but there would be no murderous force behind the blow, and I should be safe. But always there would be with me the awful memory of death dealt for me by someone I loved.

It was Katie who had saved the situation. Katie who, not hearing the man's threat, and therefore not afraid of consequences, had come back into the kitchen from an errand just after the man had flung himself upon me, and had rushed to my rescue in her own unreasoning but effective fashion. True, she could not have held him but for a second, but before the Chinese could catch his breath, our three men had reached him and were trussing him as though he were a fowl ready for roasting, in the same fashion as his companion in the corner of the room.

Lillian and Katie helped me to my feet and Katie flung herself upon my breast, weeping violently.

Dicky took me in his arms.

"Oh, my girl! My sweetheart!" he whispered. "Are you all right? Sure you're not hurt?"

"No, no," I assured him.

"Do you think you've got a patent on that discovery?" Harry Underwood asked, coming up to us. Hugh Grantland a step behind him. "Let's look at you, Lady Fair! Not a scratch! Good!"

"I should have known!" Hugh Grantland said. "He was shamming after the first few minutes. I should not have taken those trusting ropes off. When I think of what might—"

He broke off, patently making a mighty effort to pull himself together. But I saw again that flame in his eyes.

"He did not hurt you?" he asked anxiously.

"A slightly bruised elbow is the only casualty I can discover," I answered, smiling. "Please, all of you, don't consider me another minute. You probably have work to do."

GIVEN ORDERS

"We have," Hugh Grantland replied with sudden grimness, and something in his tone made me shiver. "But first I want to make sure of something. Will you have your maid bring you down fresh clothing to some room adjoining this, and will you burn what you have on after you have washed your face, hands and any exposed portions of your neck and arms in an antiseptic solution?"

"I'll take care of her," Lillian said promptly. "Come, Madge, into the laundry with me. Come along, Katie, and we'll tell you what we want to get. Call us if you want us, boys."

She closed the door behind us when we had sent Katie to my room with directions for the clothes I wished brought.

"They may want us again, but I doubt it," she said, her face grave. "I feel it in my bones that there will be some nifty third degree stunts pulled in the farmhouse kitchen or more probably—the bungalow, tonight."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

By MARGARET L. HUGHES
"Official Junior Reporter."

Saturday's meeting of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, at the Enright in East Liberty, promises to be a banner day for the club members—one filled with fun and surprises and not a few attractive prizes.

After three weeks of hectic "shooting" the "Hi-Score" contest will be brought to a close and we would not be at all surprised to see some "dark horse" emerge victor in the last lap. Those clever gameboards are really great fun and will surely provide their winners with many hours of wholesome enjoyment during the months to come.

JUDGE SIGN CONTEST

Another exciting feature of the meeting will be the judging of the sign writing contest. All kinds and sizes of signs are eligible in the contest and it is confidently expected that every member attending the meeting will come early with their own creation in "signs." The club member bringing the largest sign will win the grand prize—and it will be in keeping with the effort involved, so get in on the "sweepstakes."

The club's regular dancing teacher, Ruthie Miller, will have returned for the next meeting and will conduct a spirited session of dancing for the girls who are going to take part in the Enright "Frolic."

The Enright staff is expecting a big attendance for this unusual meeting, so be on hand early and thus be assured that you will not miss any single part of the activities.

Enright Personals

We're back again, pinch-hitting for Ann Helfgott. By the way, Ann writes to say that she is having a grand time in New York and Brighton Beach where she does scarcely nothing except "laze" around in the sun. She's trying to get as brown as the well known "berry."

Blonde Jane Fisher has returned to the club after an absence of one week. Jane says that it feels great to be back and that she won't miss again for a long time.

"Warner," the "Bring 'Em Back Alive" bear-cub, created a furore of excitement at the last meeting. He's quite a playful chap, but most of the club members were in doubt as to the exact nature of his intentions when he started in their direction.

Another regular attendant at the club meetings is Grace Moffat. She always comes with her mother. Great work, Gracie, keep up the fine showing.

Envious eyes are turned upon Mary Louise King on account of the very "chic" chiffon dress she is to be seen wearing. Quite a charming outfit and Mary Louise is equally as charming.

I'm still waiting for members to send me the names of the games you would like to play at the meetings every Saturday morning. Com'on, "kids," tell Margaret and I'll tell Manager "Bill" Zeilor.

School starts soon. Let's each one bring a new member with us every Saturday, from now until school opens.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

The members of the Enright chapter and myself, join with the secretary of the club in wishing all the boys and girls who are celebrating birthdays today, Happy birthday!

The Senate on Trial

Upon Its Action on Public Utilities Rests the People's Verdict as to Its Faithfulness.

While chairman of the Public Service Commission W. D. B. Ainey is said to have permitted the president of the Equitable Gas Company to pay an expensive hospital bill for him. The city of Pittsburgh at the time was suing the Equitable Gas Company before the Public Service Commission for a reduction in the gas rate. The Public Service Commission ruled in favor of the gas company. Confronted with evidence of his guilt, Ainey a few days ago resigned.

The people of Pennsylvania have in the foregoing case a possible explanation for the unfair rates that some of the public utilities charge and an explanation for the unwillingness of the Public Service Commission either to act of its own motion to reduce rates or to grant the suits of citizens for reductions.

Every fair-minded person will agree with Gov. Pinchot that it is the duty of the Pennsylvania Senate, in view of the revelations of the corruption of the Public Service Commission by public utilities companies, to make a complete investigation of the business.

It is also the Senate's duty to confirm Gov. Pinchot's appointees to the Public Service Commission or give an explanation for the failure to do so.

Gov. Pinchot told the simple truth in his speech to the Senate yesterday, calling upon it to do these things.

This is not a subtle or complicated business. The principles involved are the simple, elemental principles of honesty and justice. If the Senate is composed of honest men, it should be easy for it to reach a decision.

If composed of honest men, it will decide without further delay to conduct the investigation, which the people, as well as the Governor, demand.

Deceit and sophistry may be employed to find excuses for dodging the duty. But the people will not be deceived.

The Senate is definitely on trial. Upon its action concerning the public utilities depends the people's verdict as to its faithfulness.

Sound Common Sense

A Pittsburgh Businessman Offers Some Good Reasons for Believing the Depression Is Ending.

Did you read the views of President E. T. Weir, of the National Steel Company, on the business situation, as presented in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday? There was good cheer in them.

Sound common sense marked what this Pittsburgh businessman said.

The rise in security prices is encouraging. Hard times began with a crash in the stock market. It is reasonable to suppose that a boom in the market heralds industrial improvement. People are already feeling more cheerful, which is in itself helpful.

Especially encouraging to Pittsburgh is the fact pointed out by Mr. Weir that automobiles are wearing out, that railroads have not been maintained in first-class condition, and deterioration has occurred in steel and other plants.

Soon all will have to be replaced, renewed and repaired.

That means Pittsburgh steel will be in demand and Pittsburgh mills will have to be speeded up to supply it.

Not the Best Way Out

There Are Better Methods of Curtailing Municipal Expenditures Than By Another Pay Slash.

Mayor Kline's statement that city employes probably will have to forfeit a month's pay in the last quarter of the year to keep municipal expenditures within municipal income is disappointing.

That may be the simplest way out of the difficulty, but it is not the best way. It will work an injustice on many hard-working city employes whose wages and salaries are even now scarcely adequate.

A much better plan would be to eliminate permanently some of the waste in the municipal administration. The Sun-Telegraph during the last few weeks has pointed out many specific cases of waste.

The plan of the businessmen's committee headed by A. E. Braun also contains suggestions for economy that are preferable to a general pay slash.

If the Mayor and Council reduce the salaries of other city employes, it will be grossly unfair if they do not cut their own, too.

Roadside Markets

Pittsburgh May Find a Solution for Its Problem in What the State Is Doing.

Director Lang, of the Department of Public Works, was asked by 48 tenants of the market house to forbid the selling of country produce on the sidewalks outside of the market house after 11 a. m.

The outside market was established as a place where farmers, truck gardeners and the like could sell their produce. But the complainants told Director Lang that few of the outside merchants raised the products that they sold.

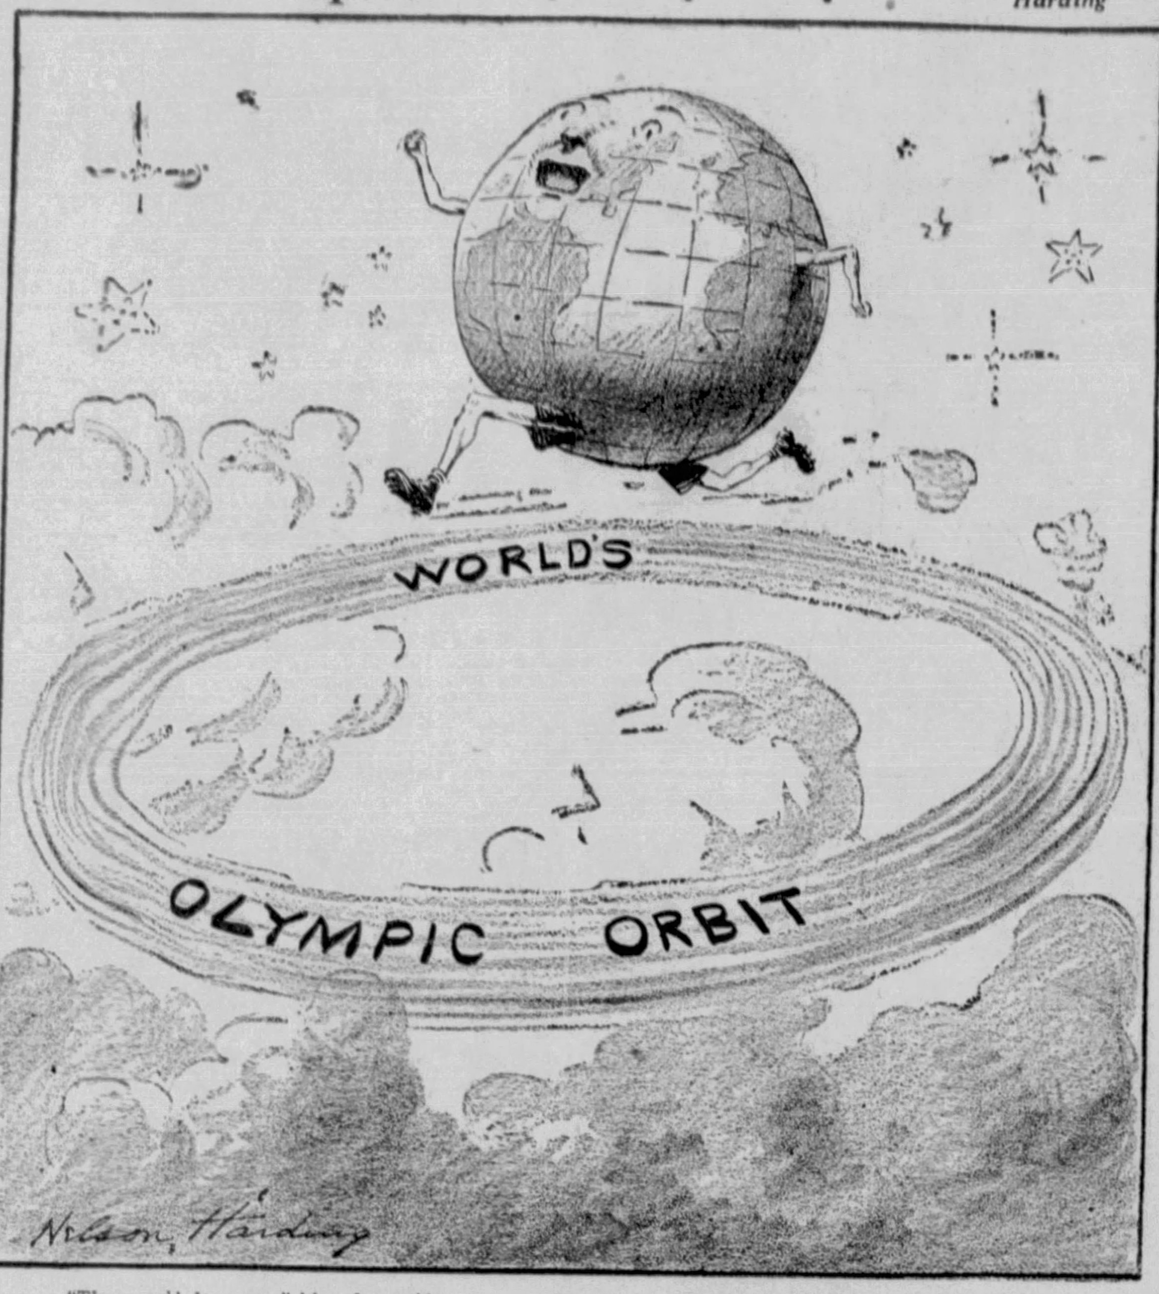
Director Lang, studying the question, may find it helpful to follow the procedure adopted by the bureau of markets of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. The bureau received complaints that many roadside markets purporting to be those of farmers selling their own products were really operated by hucksters who bought their goods at terminal markets in the cities and then brought them into the country to sell to passing motorists as fresh home-grown products, even though they may have come from distant states.

The Department of Agriculture has arranged for supervision and regulation of roadside markets. Farmers who agree to operate a genuine farm market, to produce on their own farm or purchase from neighboring farmers at least three-fourths of all farm products sold, and to label properly farm products not grown locally, are to be supplied with a badge of official approval in the form of a metal sign bearing the words "Pennsylvania Farm Products" and a figure of William Penn holding a keystone within which are the words: "An Approved Farm Roadside Market Under Supervision of Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture."

If Director Lang considers it desirable to continue the outside market, he should exact from the merchants some such evidence that they are dealing in produce of their own cultivation.

'A World o' Speed'

By Nelson Harding



"The world do move," 'tis often said,
And certainly it's moving
Much faster than it used to go,
As world athletes are proving.

The planets making records new
While on its orbit speeding.
The whole athletic world goes 'round
With Uncle Sammy leading.

Marry-Go-Round

Love—In Reverse

The modern girl's motto is: First, "get your man"—and then try to find out why you wanted him.

The girl who marries a man, thinking to change his moral ideas and mental outlook is doomed to disappointment. Nobody but a barber ever succeeded in changing a man above the ears.

"A pretty face may fade," says Reno Ruth, "but a pretty bank account or a pretty alimony-check is a solid, durable attraction, which outlasts the most peach-like complexion and outshines the most limpid eyes."

"Discretion" is what comes to a man, after the first motor-crash, the second marriage—and sometimes, after the third kiss.

The only way that an average man can enjoy a formal party appears to be to drink enough of his host's cocktails to forget that it IS a formal party.

The dog or the husband that has to be kept on a leash is always the one that eventually escapes and never returns. Marriage may work wonders, but it has never yet transformed a sentimental rover into a one-woman man, or a 12-o'clock lover into a 9-o'clock husband.

Say it with flowers, say it with words, say it with diamonds, or say it with telephone calls—but beware of saying it with a FOUNTAIN PEN!

A woman seldom appreciates a good, self-sacrificing husband, until he has been dead long enough for another man to court his insurance away from her.

Among certain African tribes, a man is allowed four wives, but usually takes only one; in America, the custom is merely reversed.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The newest crop of college boys is taking it on the chin, gallantly. Until recently, they could step from their university into a fairly good job with little effort. Bond houses wanted them especially because of their cultural gloss and general spruceness.

But today, all that is jig-saw detail in an elusive picture. To their credit, they have swallowed pride and taken menial jobs. I know three Yale and two Cornell graduates who are glorified office boys at $10 a week. They cannot even secure posts as "runners" in Wall street.

A banking house let out 60 college men in one swoop. The majority had incomes and wanted to learn banking. They offered to return at a salary of $1 a year until more propitious days. And they went back on those terms.

Too, any number are working their way around the world. I receive letters from them as cabin boys, deck swabbers and whatnot, on the Pacific and Atlantic. A group is also working in Rhodesia, South Africa, until clouds lift. Tahiti claims many.

Another gesture, crowning the excellent simplicities, is in the boys seeking employment in the smaller towns. In other years, big law firms in fair sized cities angled for graduates "to grow up with the firm." But they were not very successful. The lads rushed to New York.

Many, fall so hard in the rut of depression, have caught life on the rebound. A husband, long jobless and broke, spent most of his anguished hours in a park, gazing at that incessant trickle, called the Hudson, and steeling himself for oblivion. His wife had but one possible cashable accomplishment. She could bake a cake. In a moment of mutual despair, she wondered if he could sell some to department stores for workers' lunches. Their bakery employs sixteen, and they have two motor delivery wagons. Also, they live on a grander scale than they ever imagined possible.

A prim lady, by the oddly striking name of Bett Hooper, has all of a sudden become the newest queen of slang. She was discovered clicking a typewriter in a governmental department in Washington. In odd moments, she authored a volume, to be called "Virgins in Cellophane." A publisher grabbed it at first reading and it is on the presses. It is rumored that when certain senators get a peek at it, Miss Hooper will no longer "be livin' off the guvmint."

The backwash of humor out of the slough of depression, has never been so marked as now. Despair has been the alembic for some of the most hilarious stories and articles ever reaching the desks of magazine editors. Many, unable to turn out romance and adventure, turned to travesty and rang the bell. One editor called it: "Pearls from wounded oysters."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Tough times, these—
Life's calling your bluff.
For years you and Life
Have been playing a game,
A game like poker.
Life dealing, you taking
And acting wise,
Acting as if you held
All the aces.
Well, maybe you have them
And maybe you haven't.
Now's the time
You've got to prove it.

For this, stranger,
Is the show-down.
Some call it "depression"
Names don't matter
It's really a show-down;
A show-down for everything
And everybody;
A show-down to prove
Whether people and things
Are face cards
Or two-spots.

Life's saying to you,
Saying to everybody:
"What've you got?
"What've you really got
"In your hand?
"You've pretended to have "A full house
"Or a royal flush
"You've boasted that
"Nothing could lick you
"Well, how about it?
"Can you prove it?
"Here's your chance, now
"SHOW YOUR HAND!"

Life's calling your bluff;
Saying that to you
What are you answering?
Are you saying:

"Hold on, Life!
"That isn't fair
"Naturally I can't make
"A good showing now.
"The market's crashed;
"The government's blooey;
"I've no job,
"No money;
"Can't borrow;
"Busted flat
"But that's not my fault.
"It's not fair
"To call me for that!"

That's what you say,
But Life answers:

"I'm not asking
"A showdown on money,
"Or jobs, or credits;
"I'm asking
"A showdown on YOU.
"What are you holding
"In YOU, YOURSELF?
"If YOU, YOURSELF,
"Have got the stuff,
"You'll take the pot;
"Nothing can lick you.
"Things may be tough,
"Mighty tough;
"But nothing can lick you
"If you've got the stuff;
"BUT HAVE YOU?"

"Have you got the stuff
"In YOU, YOURSELF?"

That's what Life's saying
These days. And this:
"Are you a self-starter,
"Or just a pan-handler?
"Have you brains, or
"Are you just a smarty?
"Have you courage, or
"Are you just a show-off?
"Brains and courage—
"They're the face cards!

"If you have those
"You'll win any game,
"No matter how tough
"The deal;
"But if you haven't
"You're a wash-out,
"Even though you're dealt
"The whole pack.
"So quit your stalling
"Kid; I'm calling you!
"No more bluffing!
"SHOW YOUR HAND!"

Stump Speaking—Yesterday and Today

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

This year there will be no "swing around the circle" by the presidential nominees, and it is just as well. Blaine did it, and Bryan set a pace no earthly man save he could keep. Even Bryan sickened of it in 1908, when last he was the nominee, and while he had raised expectations he could not disappoint and had to make dozens of speeches a day, he carefully prepared and delivered, at widely separated points, six or seven major speeches, each dealing fully with some one subject. Had he made these, and no more, the effect might have been as good or better.

In the making of a multitude of speeches, a candidate for President cannot hope to cover any one issue satisfactorily in any. He has to touch on all. Seldom, consequently, are these great speeches; their one excuse for being is to satisfy the curiosity of people by exhibiting themselves.

Mr. Hoover, never a ready speaker, nor an inspiring one, is less equipped for such an intellectual and physical feat as those of Blaine and Bryan than any candidate in years. Having the excuse of the Presidency, he will make but a few set speeches.

Mr. Roosevelt's plan, a bit unique, is admirable and may be followed in the future. He, too, purposes to make a limited number of major speeches at strategic points. He will linger a while in each section meeting the party workers.

The radio has made the swings around the circle unnecessary.

Dearth of Great Orators Today

For years, favorite party orators have traversed the entire land, speaking every night. Today there is a dearth of these orators of the highest order to carry on the tradition. Bourke Cochran and Bryan used to do it for the Democrats, sweeping from coast to coast; and Beveridge for the Republicans. In 1908 the latter traveled 17,000 miles, speaking from breakfast to midnight from the rear end of private trains and in great halls. It was in that campaign that he reached Oklahoma City half an hour after midnight. The audience waited. His train had been delayed by the numerous stops at small towns in Kansas and Oklahoma, and at each he had to speak briefly. It was 1 in the morning when he reached the hall in Oklahoma City and 2:30 when he closed. At 9 the next morning he was speaking in Indian Territory.

That sort of thing is murderous on the speaker, and few could or would undertake it.

Prentiss was an Amazing Genius

The real appeals to the people did not begin from the stump in America until a century ago. Outstanding perennial presidential aspirants, like Henry Clay, were wont to speak in a number of States, but, as far as I can learn, the first to tour the country in a "swing around the circle," on the strength of his oratory alone, was Sergeant S. Prentiss, of Mississippi, born in Maine.

Prentiss was an amazing genius—perhaps the greatest orator this country has produced, and by many thought to have been the most brilliant extemporaneous speaker in the world's history. He could be put upon a platform anywhere, at any time, under any conditions, and without notice he could pour forth eloquence that was real literature in its phrasing. No one thought of him for the Presidency; his Congressional career was very brief; his fame rested solely on his eloquence.

A small man, with a club foot, he had a face that fairly glowed with feeling and genius. His dark eyes were marvelously magnetic. His voice was of silvery sweetness. He had the imagination of a poet—his imagery was of the highest order. But he was not flowery in the cheap sense. His speeches were logical, dealt with facts, but he made the facts march in proper procession and to music.

I know of no stump speaker in our history whose speeches were pitched upon a higher plane.

Prentiss' National Stumping Tour

It was in 1840 that he made his great national stumping tour. He was but 32 years old. His fame had been secure in Mississippi from his twenty-second year. One speech in Congress, and one or two during his services in the House, had established his national reputation. Webster, listening to his maiden speech in the House, had said: "No one can equal it but Prentiss himself."

In 1840 the demand for him upon the stump came from every quarter, and he agreed to make the national tour. He was the first orator not actually seeking office who had undertaken any such thing on such a scale.

It took him to New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia, Ohio, Maine, Massachusetts, Maryland, Alabama, Louisiana. He spoke each time about three hours, usually in the open where the audience stood—and held them as in a spell.

Few Real Stump Speakers in History

In Jersey he spoke at Newark on the military common under the shade of elm trees and toward the close of day. Judge Hornblower, who heard him, has left the record of his impressions. He was fascinated. Prentiss talked largely in defense of the tariff, for he was a Whig. "There was no tinsel about it, no clap-trap," wrote Hornblower, "but it seemed as if the man had an unexhaustible mine of thought from which he could draw at pleasure."

There have been few stump speakers in our history. For Prentiss spoke on the stump as he would in the Senate or before the Supreme Court.

Less Eloquence in English Speeches

Somehow we Americans have been given the impression that the Englishman on the hustings pitches his argument on a higher plane and with fewer personalities than the American on the stump. It is all the bunk. The next time there is a general election in England subscribe for an English paper and see for yourself. I have. If anything, there is more of personalities in an English speech by one of the great leaders than in an American speech of men of equal political status. And there is less eloquence. You simply cannot imagine Hoover and Roosevelt hitting each other personally with ridicule as the Lloyd Georges hit the Baldwins, or the Baldwins hit the Ramsay MacDonalds.

The Radio Is A Godsend

There is another reason why these continental tours of the great orators will soon be a thing of the past. In other times one carefully prepared speech could serve for the tour, with a few local touches added at each meeting. The radio has made an end of that. Chauncey M. Depew once spread the same stories and the same eloquent passages across the country. The radio would make that impossible.

But in the case of a few carefully prepared set speeches by a presidential candidate the radio is a godsend. Instead of a comparatively few hearing him once on one subject, millions can hear him several times on different subjects.

So it will be this year.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You find much fault with members of your family.

They do not dress to suit you, they do not cultivate the people you favor and they are too much interested in society or they don't go out enough.

One has mannerisms that annoy you.

Another has tricks of speech and phrases that don't please you.

You disapprove of the table manners of sister or brother and think they do not spend their leisure as they should.

If there are any points in favor of members of your family you never mention them.

You give no compliments but find much about which to complain.

Naturally your objections do not have the desired effect because you never give praise when it is due.

Why not be complimentary on occasion?

It would be much appreciated by those of your family who try to merit it.

They know that they cannot be wrong in everything and they like to be credited with what they do well.

You like praise yourself, so give it when and where it is deserved.

Why is it that you so seldom praise members of your family?
